JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Labor Department Makes Deal With Garment Workers Union; Agrees Not To Prosecute For Illegal Loans To Officers; Accepts Promises To Reduce Loans But Sets No Deadlines

Action to Halt Strike Begins

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Labor Committee approved 13 to 1 today a resolution designed to halt, until Oct. 1, the nationwide rail strike called by the signalmen's union.

The committee acted as the strike sent mounting ripples of paralysis through much of the economy for the second day.

Sponsors of the resolution said they hoped it could clear the Senate in a few hours and then be combined later in the day with House legislation, and sent on to President Nixon.

The committee included in its resolution an approximate 17 per cent wage increase for the 13,000 members of the signalmen's union.

Thus it revised considerably the proposal sent to Congress Monday by Nixon after the strike began.

The President had proposed a simple extension of the nostrike period to July 1 without any wage increase.

But members of the Labor Committee decided that the men should receive an interim wage increase since they had been working 22 months without one. The wage boost included in the committee's resolution covers the first three steps of a wage package recommended by an emergency board.

Shortly before the committee action, House Republican Gerald Ford of Michigan, emerged from a White House meeting with President Nixon and accused the Democratic-controlled Congress of "Foot-dragging" on legislation to end the strike and enact permanent legislation for dealing with similar labor disputes.

"The economy of the United States will suffer more and our tax loss will be greater by further delay in consideration of rail strike legislation than would ever be saved by troop reductions in Europe," Ford said.

The Senate committee also wrote into its resolution a provision calling on secretaries of Labor, Transportation and Defense to submit to Congress a report on the effects of this strike.

Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., the committee chairman, said he hoped this data could be used by his panel in trying to draft some form of permanent legislation to deal with national emergency strikes.

The only member to vote against the resolution was Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore.

Major steel and automobile firms slashed production, tons of perishable foods piled up on rail sidings, 300,000 commuters had to find other transportation and the New York stock market suffered its sharpest loss in a year.

President Nixon, telling Congress "it is essential that our railroads continue to operate," asked the strike be halted until July 1 to allow more time for the industry to bargain with the 13,000 members of the striking Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen.

The Senate Labor Committee, after hearing from the railroads, the union and Nixon administration spokesmen, indicated sentiment for extending the delay to Oct. 1 and writing signalmen an immediate pay increase.

Both sides in the dispute promised to abide by such a plan which would raise top pay for signalmen from the present $3.78 an hour to $4.46.

The Interstate Commerce Commission today ordered trucks, buses and inland barges and ships to give priority to hauling such items as food, fuel, and health necessities while trains are not running.

ICC Chairman George M. Stafford said the order would remain in effect until the strike was ended.

Strike-delaying legislation likely would reach the President's desk tonight unless the House and Senate approve widely different plans requiring more time for compromise.

The signalmen struck at dawn Monday after all legal delays had been exhausted over more than 16 months of negotiations.

Some 500,000 other rail workers in the tightly unionized industry refused to cross picket lines of signalmen who install, inspect and maintain trackside electric signal devices.

Spokesmen said the steel industry—already stockpiling in anticipation of a possible strike of its own when its contracts expire in August—was forced into immediate production cutbacks.

U.S. Steel, the nation's biggest producer of steel, reduced coke production 10 per cent Monday and said if the walkout lasts 48 hours, "the problems will really start to get serious."

Senate Chokes Police Training Agency Bill

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Senate plugged away in debate on its own bills again today, scheduling both a morning and afternoon session.

Monday the Senate strangled with amendments a bill to set up a separate state agency to train local law enforcement officers.

Then the sponsor, Sen. Jack Gant, D-Independence, laid it over and is not expected to call it up again.

Opponents said the proposal was a boondoggle and a costly new agency that would duplicate the work of the Highway Patrol Academy and the Kansas City and St. Louis Police Academies.

One amendment would have required the trainees to be instructed in courage, without defining that intangible attribute.

The Senate found its way out of one dilemna by adopting a resolution urging Gov. Warren E. Hearnes to put the surplus property unit of the Department of Education under the merit system to meet federal requirements and prevent the cutoff of $3 million worth of surplus property a year.

The property goes to cities, counties, schools, colleges, hospitals and other public agencies. The resolution now goes to the House.

Sen. William J. Cason, DClinton, said the governor had agreed to issue such an executive order if the legislature asked him to do so.

Earlier, the Senate had vetoed the governor's reorganization plan to put the surplus property unit under the merit system but shift it from the Department of Education to the purchasing agent's office.

Clean Water!

To Matthews in July After Three-Year Absence

MATTHEWS — Mayor Harold Burch said residents of Matthews will begin drinking "clean water" in July.

"Everything will hopefully be in operation by July," Burch said.

Clean water has eluded residents of this small community three years. Water has been dirty and evil smelling.

Burch commented:

"All we need to do now is sell water to the FHA water district in the Canalou area. We are extending 700 feet of main line pipe along the highway from the city limits to the first ditch where the FHA will hook on. This should be done by the end of the week."

After that is completed, Burch said, Bridger Plumbing and Heating, Sikeston, needs to hook up the main line to the filtering system to complete the Matthews water system.

The city tackled much of the work itself because of lack of funds. It dug a new well, installed new water pipe and built a filtration plant.

Burch said the city installed 4,196 feet of four-inch plastic pipe approved by the water district. "The city also installed four fire hydrants and 3,000 feet of six-inch main line pipes," he said.

The old water system in Matthews started in 1959 with the construction of a main pump with water capacity of 987 feet. Three years ago, the pump went out and it cost the city $4,000 to repair it. A stand-by well was built three years ago with a 127 foot depth.

Last year the main pump went out again costing the city $2,300 for repairs.

Standard-Plaza Art Show Friday

The first annual Bootheel Youth Art Show, sponsored by the Daily Standard and Kingsway Plaza Mall will be Friday, and Saturday, from 11 a.m. until 8 p.m., at the plaza on South Kingshighway.

Prizes will be awarded for best in show and first, second and third places in each of four categories — grades 3-5, 6-8, 9-10, and 11-12.

More than 400 student art objects are scheduled for display. They include paintings, drawings, ceramics, and sculpture entered by Bootheel school students.

Continued Strike Will Hurt

Sikeston industries have not felt the strain of yesterday's nationwide rail strike but most concede continuance could be costly.

"The rail strike has made things uncomfortable, but we will be able to convert to trucks where we have to," says Russ Harmon, plant general manager of Hart's Bread.

Harmon said that some items, such as flour, cannot be stocked to any great degree and that his suppliers have assured him that they can convert to the trucking industry if needed.

"A short strike won't have any great effect, but if it extends, then we'll have to make the changes," he observed.

Shipping officials at Caproco Inc. said their inbound supplies are shipped by rail and if the strike continues this policy may have to be altered.

Ray Noonan, shipping supervisor, said that company has a "bit of supplies on hand, but I don't know how long we could operate if the strike continues."

Potlach Forest officials said although they do a large amount of inbound shipping by rail, the strike has had no effect.

Dexter City Employes Get Pay Increase

DEXTER--An ordinance was passed last night by the town board giving each city employe an approximate $20 per month raise in salary.

J. R. Angle and James T. Williams were granted licenses for plumbing on payment of $25 each.

The park board was granted an extra $1,000 for additional expenses in order to pay the balance on the construction costs of the tennis court.

The council said the water tower will be painted by Adams-McCord engineering firm.

'Subversives' To Be Shown in Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the House Internal Security Committee says hearings on recent antiwar demonstrations will show subversives among the protest leaders. But the panel's dissident says he doubts it.

Chairman Richard H. Ichord, D-MO., says the probe starting today will "explore particularly the domination of the National Peace Action Coalition by the Socialist Workers Party and the principal role being played by the Communist Party USA in the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice."

But Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., who voted against investigating sponsors of the recent wave of demonstrations here, said "I see no evidence, really, no sufficient evidence that there are subversive elements in this peace movement.

"The people who planned the April 24 thing clearly are not subversive," Drian added.

Joseph Swetay Michigan Victim

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich. (AP) — Joseph Swetay, 64, of Covert township, Mich., was slain May 2 in a combination gorcery store and tavern robbery.

William Cole, 47, and Carlos Fain, 31, both of Benton Harbor, are in the Pemiscot county jail in Caruthersville, Mo., on a Michigan warrant for investigation of murder.

The pair was apprehended Sunday night in Hayti, Mo., by a deputy sheriff and three highway patrolmen.

Gas Hike Vetoed By Gov. Hearnes

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes vetoed the gas tax increase bill Monday and the question still is unanswered whether the Senate will attempt to over-ride it.

It could be done in the Senate where the bill passed first on a 22-5 vote. Only one more affirmative vote would be needed to over-ride the veto.

But in the House, it would be a different matter. The bill passed the House 86-56 and it would take 109 affirmative votes to over-ride there.

The measure would have boosted the motor fuel tax from five cents a gallon to seven cents with no new ties on the revenue.

Hearnes said that wouldn't solve Missouri's highway needs. He said a tax increase must be tied to a highway bond issue so the needed highway construction can be pushed speedily.

Hearnes said in a veto message that such a bond issue is before a Senate committee. It has passed the House but now contains a plan for $600 million in bonds, $400 million for highways, $100 million for each for county roads and state aid to mass transit.

The original plan was for $475 million for highways only.

Sewage and Bonds Occupy Council

NEW MADRID — Sewage and bond issues were topics of a city council meeting last night.

Again appearing before the council representing residents in the Angora Heights sub-division, who are requesting sewer extensions, Attorney Harry H. Bock was told the council had contacted a bonding company concerning a bond issue but details have not been worked out.

Bock was told that the possibility of obtaining local bank financing of the bonds would be investigated.

H. H. Townsend Jr., owner of land adjacent to the sub-division, discussed sewer extension to his property.

Construction bills totalling $1,287,061.78 for power plant construction in St. Jude Industrial Park were approved. Also approved were two weeks payroll for construction at the power plant, $199,159.40 for week of May 7 and $185,746.57 for week of May 14.

A resolution was approved authorizing publication of legal notices for the public sale of $60 million in power plant construction bonds. The bonds were approved March 2 by voters to supply additional funds to complete a 60 megawatt generating station in the industrial park.

$200 Fine on Driving Charge

Despite a recommendation for a lighter fine from Assistant Prosecutor John Wilson, Magistrate Judge Lloyd G. Briggs this morning fined Russell Atchison of 221 Luther $200 and sentenced him to 60 days in jail on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Wilson had recommended a $100 fine and a six-month probation.

Atchison's jail time was stayed and a one year probation was issued.

Judge Briggs granted a request from the attorney representing John Scarbrough of Sikeston, for a change of venue from Briggs to another judge. Briggs assigned Judge Leo Hedgepeth of New Madrid to hear the case on the magistrate court level. Scarbrough is charged with the sale of illegal drugs.

TAXPAYERS OPERATING IN THE BLACK

To the average taxpayer, May 10 is a "red-letter" day, or rather, the day he gets out of the red ink as far as paying taxes are concerned. That is the day Mr. Average Taxpayer starts working for himself, says the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, providing he has worked steadily since January 1 and given every dollar to the government: federal, state and local.

We have all been spending some of our hard-earned cash on food and other essentials since January 1, so we should look at it on a daily basis: the average wage-earner works more than one-third of every eigh-hour day — two hours and 51 minutes, to be exact — before his daily income covers his tax bite.

Unless we stop demanding more services of government, we are in danger of losing half of our income to the Internal Revenue, pricing our products out of the market, and bringing the wheels of industry to a stop. As it is now, the greatest single cause of inflation is higher taxes.

The mean income received by American men 25 and older in 1968 was $7,900. For men with more than a high school diploma, the mean income was $8,400. For those with four or more years of college it was $12,000.

We've had several requests for the Congressional bean soup recipe.

For years this soup has been a specialty of the House dining room in the U. S. Capitol; and while the formula may seem simple, the fact that the ham hocks must be smoked makes it distinctive.

Wash two pounds of small pea-size navy beans, and run through hot water until beans are white again.

Add the beans to four quarts of boiling water.

Add 1½ pounds of smoked ham hocks, and simmer for three hours in a covered pot.

Add one onion chopped fine and lightly browned.

Season with salt and pepper just before serving.

Serves eight.

(Soup may also be kept in deep-freeze in small portions ready to heat.)

CAREFULLY STORED GUNS
CAN REDUCE ACCIDENTS

Improperly stored guns are a major cause of firearms accidents in the home, according to the National Safety Council.

The safety council reported that half of the accidental firearms fatalities in 1969 occurred in the home, and many occurred because guns were improperly stored.

To help reduce accidents, the National Shooting Sports Foundation urges all gun owners to observe these safety rules:

1. Be certain every gun in the home is unloaded. Be sure that the magazine is completely empty.

2. All guns should be locked up, out of the reach of children.

3. Ammunition should also be secured under lock and key. I should be stored separately from the firearms.

Most important of all, the shooter should teach his family safe gun handling and respect for firearms. Proper training in the care and use of firearms will provide all members of the family with the knowledge needed to eliminate firearms accidents in the home.

A full 24 per cent on meat costs can be saved by buying advertised specials at supermarkets according to distinguished economist - writer Sylvia Porter.

Some examples of advertised prices as compared to the national average by Miss Porter include: Advertised chicken, 29 cents; national average, 41 cents. Advertised bacon, 69 cents; national average 41 cents. Advertised chuck roast, 55 cents; national average, 70 cents.

Miss Porter's advertised prices were obtained from Washington newspapers early this spring. This column made a similar check with in several small cities, comparing advertised prices to non-advertised prices within the same city. The results were roughly the same as reported by Miss Porter; however, the disparity on some items ran to more than 50 per cent.

The large advertisers are not engaged in charity. Their low prices may be attributed to several factors. The anticipated large volume of sales reduce the required margin of profit. The costs of storage, spoilage, and distribution are reduced because of advertising.

Also, advertising is really the latest news about market conditions. When turkey or chicken is selling for 20 cents a pound, the advertising is reporting that the national or international market for such produce is over-supplied at that time.

As Miss Porter points out, there is no new rule for cutting food prices, but the best "old rule" is to shop for advertised specials.

NEW YORK (AP) — "Each day is a bonus, a free ride to me," said actor Walter Matthau.

"The thing that gives me most pleasure in life today is simply being alive. I had a massive heart attack five years ago that was supposed to kill me but didn't.

"A heart attack is a big insult to your psyche as well as your physiology. I believe mine must have changed my personality—and for the better. Anyway, I've gotten more leading film roles since then."

His latest starring vehicle is a screen version of Neil Simon's "Plaza Suite," following smash performances in "The Fortune Cookie," "The Odd Couple," and "Hello, Dolly."

"If you start from nothing and drive yourself to a false fiduciary success, you are almost bound to have a heart attack," he remarked.

His own came after a period during which he overworked, smoked heavily and indulged a passion for spectacular gambling. Now he still works hard but has given up smoking and cut down on his gambling.

"But, of course," he said, smiling, "you can get a heart attack from the strain of standing in line at a $2 window."

Mellowed now by early adversity and illness at the peak of his career, Matthau said now he would define life as "a silly little journey" and his philosophy is this:

"Whatever it is, it isn't that important. Work is more important than the man who does it."

Asked what defeats most men in life, he replied:

"They fall in with all of the philosophy that is made up by the haves. This is not consistent with the needs and desires of the have nots. Whenever the have nots try to apply the philosophy of the haves to their own lives, they come up empty."

Walter feels his worst fault is a feeling of nameless guilt.

"I feel terribly guilty. But I don't know what I'm guilty of or why I feel that way.

His best virtue, in his own opinion, is that "I don't take myself too seriously."

Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, today stated that proper signaling by drivers can reduce traffic accidents and the deaths, injuries and property damage that result from them.

The Superintendent pointed out that the Patrol found over 2,000 'failure to signal or improper signal' violations in accidents investigated by the state law enforcement agency last year.

"It is imperative for the smooth and safe flow of traffic that drivers know what other drivers in the immediate traffic picture intend to do," Hockaday stated. "This communication between drivers can be accomplished by proper signaling. I urge all drivers to signal their intentions to stop, turn and slow down and to make them in plenty of time to allow other motorists to prepare for their movements."

Colonel Hockaday then pointed out that just as the proper use of signals can reduce the chances for accidents, the improper use of signals can just as certainly create hazards. One improper user of signals is that of relaying turn signals of other drivers. When a driver who intends to continue straight ahead comes upon another driver who is signaling for a turn, no signal should be given unless the turning driver will cause the other to slow or stop. If the situation calls for slowing or stopping the second driver should make the appropriate slow or stop signal.

"Communication among drivers through the proper use of signals is a must in this day of heavy and complex traffic," Hockaday concluded. "Each driver must know what the other will do. When communication between drivers breaks down, chaos and tragedy often follow."

Keep Lands Open
In U.S. for Mines,
James Goyd Says

"Casting aside multiple land use would amount to perpetuating a crime against future society," said James Boyd, president of Copper Range Company, a panelist at a recent National Association of Manufacturer's meeting held in St. Charles, Ill.

Mr. Boyd, former director of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, stated, "The industrial economies of the world would eventually cease to exist if denied access to large territories in which to prospect for untapped mineral resources."

Mr. Boyd believes today's economy is dependent upon the products of mines. He cited the sources of modern energy—from coal, natural gas, and fiquid petroleum. " in time," he added, "this will come more from the mineral uranium and from oil shales."

Although minerals are abundant in the earth's crust, deposits which are sufficiently concentrated to be developed economically are rare, Mr. Boyd pointed out. "Useful deposits are becoming more difficult to find and more costly to exploit. In and around metropolitan areas, this is true even of sand and gravel. It is infinitely more true in the case of silver and nickel, and only slightly less so in the basic raw materials, copper, lead, zinc, iron and aluminum."

Because the kind of ecomomy we live in today cannot do without the products of mines, Mr. Boyd said the mining industry must have access to virtually all areas of the nation to seek out these relatively small spots which yield minerals. "When the geologist locates a natural mineral resource of enormous value to mankind, it is worthwhile to move whole towns to permit its utilization on behalf of all the people," Mr. Boyd noted.

Hurdles to Longer
Life

If medical scientists could just eliminate all diseases and if safety experts could prevent all accidents, everyone ought to live to be a hundred of two.

It sounds logical, but it doesn't work out that way, at least, not on paper.

Statisticians with Metropolitan Life have calculated how much life expectancy would be increased if deaths from the major diseases and from accidents were reduced by 50 per cent, which does not seem to be an unreasonable or unattainable goal, if a distant one.

The largest increase would come if deaths from heart and blood vessel diseases were halved. But it would range only from three to five years, depending upon whether you are white or nonwhite, male of female and what age group you are in.

Gains in longevity from cutting cancer deaths in half would range from about one-half to 1¼ years.

The halving of deaths from accidents, including motor vehicle accidents, would increase average life expectancy at birth by more than half a year but would have little effect at ages 65 and over.

For newborns, present average life expectancy remains a shade under the Biblical three-score and 10. If by some miracle deaths from all major causes were cut in half, their lease on life would be extended by a total of about 8¾ years.

Not bas, but still somewhat short of Methuselah.

Anyway, as the Good Book teaches, it is not the length but the quality of life that is important.

H.L. Hunt Says

2-Party System--
Vital Safeguard

The future of our Republic, if we are to avoid anorchy or dictatorship, is best safeguarded under a two-party system. The two-party system is best established and maintained at the grass roots. If each county in the U. S. builds a strong two-party system, that will insure a strong two-party system in each of the 50 states. That is the only way to assure a strong two-party system for our Republic.

A study of the history of governments should convince anyone that only the two-party system affords both stability and Constructive progress. One-party governments, such as in the communist nations and the national socialist states of Hitler, Mussolini, Peron, etc., offer their citizens no opportunity for peaceful change and never permit opposition to the dictatorial individual or clique in power.

Any system which encourages third and fourth parties invites instability. If three, four or more parties, with splintered interests and splintered solutions, contend for election, the result is chaos like France goes through every few years. There is almost never a majority view and seldom a solution to any problem. The resulting instability leads to anarchy unless a strong-man rule is imposed to restore order, as in France under De Gaulle. Or communists get control by a minority vote of 30%, as in Chile.

When our society is under attack from allucinating drugs and the criminals and subversives who profit from this fad, then all of us had better wake ourselves up. The only stable solution is for the good, Constructive citizens to go to work and organize to direct the policies of the major party most likely to preserve and extend Freedom in the tradition of Republic USA, instead of the tradition of Lenin, Marx and Mao. Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--The Labor Department, with characteristic softness on union bosses, has refused to take criminal action against one of the nation's most respected union for making illegal loans to its officers and staff.

The Landrum-Griffith Act forbids union employees or officers from going into debt to their organization for more than $2,000. The penalty runs as high as a $5,000 fine and a year in jail.

Although officers of other unions have been fined or jailed for the offense, the leaders of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union have been allowed to get away with it.

Instead of prosecuting, the Labor Department entered into a series of secret negotiations with the union leaders which produced an agreement that the illegal loans would be "reduced" to legal levels. No deadline was set for accomplishing this.

Barely had this quiet deal been consummated when the department discovered that the union was violating the same law in another way. So the Labor Department merely sat down with the union bigwigs and made another deal.

The illegal loans have been made in two forms. The first discovered by the department was cut-rate mortgages. Hundreds of thousands in mortgage money was shelled out to the union officers and staff between 1961 and 1968.

--TALK, NOT FIGHT--

There were some in the Labor Department's regional office in New York, which has immediate jurisdiction over the ILGWU, who wanted to make a full-scale investigation. The department brass decided, however, that they would rather talk than fight.

So negotiations were begun in New York and eventually concluded in Washington. It was decided that the union officers would not be prosecuted if no new mortgage loans were made and the outstanding ones were reduced to the legal limit of $2,000 over an unspecified period of time.

Soon thereafter, however, it was discovered that a number of ILGWU officers and staff had been getting cut-rate personal loans up to $2,000 which were also illegal because the same persons already were in debt to the union for mortgage money.

Instead of action, there was more talk and a few months ago the government and the union agreed that these loans would be cut back to legal levels by October of this year.

Benjamin Naumoff, the New York regional administrator who has jurisdiction over the ILGWU, told us that the decision not to act was made because there was no evidence the loans were made for corrupt reasons and there was no injury to the ILGWU.

Asked why the department did not set a deadline for eliminating the mortgages, he said this might have been unfeasible in view of the time it normally takes to pay off a mortgage. The union confirmed Naumoff's explanation.

The whole situation is all the more surprising because the ILGWU has long been considered one of the nation's most progressive unions, a reputation it acquired under the leadership of David Dubinsky, who was its president from 1932 to 1965.

Footnote: Burton Hall, a New York lawyer, who represents dissident groups in the ILGWU, has made a thorough investigation of the illegal loans and traces the government's softness to the union's longstanding friendship with Naumoff. When Naumoff first got his job, Hall tells us, the ILGWU leaders threw a big testimonial dinner for him and gave him a color TV, which he accepted.

--WASHINGTON WHIRL--

Connally's Car--Texas Democrat John Connally, the new Treasury Secretary, rides around town in style. The long-time LBJ crony, when not using his official Cadillac limousine, drives a $26,350 Mercedes Benz 600 with hand-polished walnut paneling and blue leather seats. A Connally aid says his boss got the luxury cream-colored car after he left the governorship, but refuses to say whether the car was a gift.

Cabinet Change?--White House adviser John Ehrlichman will be named by President Nixon to a cabinet post within two months, say insiders. They expect him to replace Attorney General Mitchell who will soon be taking over Nixon's 1972 campaign. However, they say the President is also considering Ehrlichman for another cabinet post.

Raising Cain--The Pentagon is now reaching deep into the right-wing fringe to come up with 100 per cent-true, unquestioning supporters for its endless auxiliary bureaucracy. Mrs. Mary D. Cain, an aging champion of the far right, has been named by Defense Secretary Mel Laird to a three-year term on the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Services. She has long been active in the "Congress of Freedom" and "We, the People!," two groups that have included many extremists. She is also a committee member of the Friends of Rhodesian Independence, a Liberty Lobby front which backs the white supremist policies of the former British colony.

Debtor's Prison--The American Civil Liberties Union of Florida, which has taken on the court cases of brutalized prisoners in grim Raiford, Fla., penitentiary, is in danger of going to debtor's prison itself. The civil liberties group expects a bankrupting $8,000 in total costs for trying to get the prison into "habitable condition."

GEORGE WALLACE: Alabama Governor Woos 'Working Class' As Prelude to '72 Presidential Race

Roanoke, Va.: -- Yes, Virginia, there still is a George Wallace. Very much indeed, though much of the nation appears to have forgotten the nimble, infighting, always-jabbing governor of Alabama. And after a long telephone conversation with him, I have no doubt that Mr. Wallace positively will run for president again, just as he did in 1968 on a latter-day Populist platform which sounds like the disinterring of the Workingmen's Party, now dead almost 150 years.

The bantam 51-year-old governor did not say right out he was running. But he does appear to believe he could get more than 20 million votes -- twice what he rolled up last time. And virtually all from working people, in and out of organized labor.

Dramatically enough, the AFL-CIO's high command was in closed-door conference in Atlanta, Ga., talking considerable politics right about the time Gov. Wallace and I were doing the same.

In 1968 labor's chiefs threw over 30 million leaflets into the fight specifically aimed at Mr. Wallace. They may have to really cut loose this time. For the governor is making inroads into labor just as he did in '68 -- but seemingly more so. And earlier. Much earlier.

Just whom the governor's candidacy wil hurt most -- Richard Nixon or the Democratic-labor alliance nominee, who appears to be shaping up as Hubert Humphrey for the moment -- no one would venture. And during my travels these past few days I polled some of the South's most astute political leaders.

One thing is certain, Mr. Wallace appears to be the balance of power, what with Mr. Nixon having rolled up 31,785,480 to Sen. Humphrey's 31,275,165 back in '68.

I did talk to Jim Buckley about the governor the evening after Wallace's big inside clambake in Dallas. New York's junior senator did not believe Gov. Wallace was a fellow Conservative. "A Populist, yes." A conservative, no, said the only senator ever elected on an official Conservative Party ticket.

Whatever he is, Gov. Wallace is picking up labor support. Recently "Red" Smith's International Ass. of Machinists (AFL-CIO) polled its members in Illinois and Texas. In the two states George Wallace received an average of 22 per cent of the unionists' votes -- 21 per cent in Illinois and 24 per cent in Texas. He topped President Nixon each time.

Nor did he lose any votes back in March when he bucked President Nixon's suspension of the Davis-Bacon Act's prevailing wage standards. The governor was right there nose to nose on the track with Gov. Rockefeller of New York and Gov. Shapp of Pennsylvania in announcing that, in effect, there would be no suspension of Davis-Bacon in Alabama and that if any attempt was made to cut down prevailing wages he wanted to know about it quickly.

He made swift contact, through aides and directly, with national, state and local building and construction trades union chiefs. Some telegrams came in congratulating him. One came from a carpenters group and another from the Chattahoochee Valley Building and Construction Trades Council. There were offers of "assistance" in "any great or small matter."

Of course, this served labor's interests, pocketbook and agreements. But still, they did put themselves on record, despite national labor leaders charges that George Wallace is a menace.

The controversial governor has also been invited to keynote the Mobile (Ala.) Joint Labor Day Committee celebration in Prichard Stadium. There may be no connection between the invite and the assault on President Nixon, but the shrewd governor won't lose any brownie points when he gets up before teeming labor thousands next Labor Day.

There's much of Huey Long in the governor's public and private oratory. There is talk of suing, sort of a class-action maneuver, the major funds such as the Ford Foundation and the Rockefeller Fund, in the federal courts.

Those around the governor say that thus he could hammer together a platform which would promise that if the huge milti-billion dollar funds were forced to pay taxes, the "working people" could have their own and dependents tax exemptions doubled from the current $600 to $1200 a person.

And there is talk of improving unemployment insurance regulations, workmen's compensation, building hospitals, mental institutions, dental and medical schools and nurses' training centers. If the governor of Alabama had the hoarse, coasting voice of the governor of New York, it all would sound mighty like "Rocky" at one of his private labor soirees.

There's bound to be swift counteraction by labor's agile political strategists. In 1968, they moved after reports in this column of George Wallace's inroads into their own ranks -- and into the heart of the United auto Workers, then led by the late Walter Reuther.They rolled out the manpower and hardware, the litany and literature. But Mr. Wallace says his 9,906,473 votes defeated Vice President Humphrey.

The labor chiefs want no repeat. They want an ally in the White House -- not a neutral. They take Hubert Humphrey at his word when again and again they hear him say at some session, "If I had won, this meeting would have been in the White House."

They're not yet wed to Sen. Humphrey. They want Sen. Henry Jackson on the ticket. But most of all they want in -- and the 5-foot-7 George Wallace looms big in the driveway " as a spoiler," they say.

The derby is on.

THE STORY of "Goldilocks and the Three Bears" was dramatized at a parents night program at the Sikeston Child Development Center Thursday. From left are Keith Morgan as Father Bear; Laverne Andrews as Mother Bear; Bobby Estes as Baby Bear and Monica McCormick as Goldilocks.

Parents Night Thursday

Parents night was held at the Sikeston Child Development Center Thursday night.

Forty children sang and acted out songs, demonstrated rhythm and physical fitness exercises. Mrs. Decima Munger is the center co-ordinator, Mrs. Alberta Flowers, Mrs. Inez Hunt, Mrs. Mildred Smith, Mrs. Doris Caston and Mrs. Delcenia Thompson are aides. Mrs. Shelia Hawkins is the secretary and social service; Mrs. Marjorie Bonner is the parent co-ordinator; John Scott is the director of all activities in Lincoln school facility. Mrs. John Marshall, volunteer aide, accompanied the children at the piano for the program.

Sikeston Child Development Center to Continue in Summer

Judge Marshall Craig, chairman of the committee for Sikeston's Child Development Center, announces the center will operate continuously through the summer as a service for low income parents, who are employed or in vocational training.

In the Lincoln School Facility, the center began in February, 1968, as a community agency drawing funds and in kind services from many sources, and has remained open since.

Some of the sources of support are the Manpower Training Program, Scott County Welfare, Scott County Health Authority, Delta Headstart, the Mainstream Training Program, the Commodities Food Program, the Ferguson Clinic, Hunter Memorial First Presbyterian Church, First United Methodist Church, labor unions, civic and fraternal groups, many businesses,individuals and Neighborhood Youth Corps.

About 90 hours each week are given by women volunteers. "Much of the success of the Center is due to the coordinated use of all Sikeston's resources, from existing agencies and clubs as well as from individuals in all parts of town," commented Mrs. Keith Collins, committee member and chairman of volunteer staff.

Mrs. Decima Munger, co-ordinator of the Center's 40 children, announces that beginning June 1 there will be 10 to 12 vacancies. Parents may fill out applications to enroll pre-school children for summer day care by coming to the center and registering with the secretary Monday through Friday.

Preference will be given first to those children whose parents need quality day care service in order to stay on a job or in vocational training, second to those children nearest age for entering kindergarten, and third to foster children and others who need development in group experiences.

Office Grandma Rankled Because Unmarried Pregnant Girl Gets Attention

Dear Readers: Thank you for your magnificent response to my suggestion that you wire or write your Senators in support of S-34, the Cancer Conquest Bill. An unprecedented blizzard of letters has hit Washington. The already overworked secretaries who must answer the mail have posted signs saying, "Impeach Ann Landers!" They quietly concede, however, that the response is heart-warming. Judging from the telegrams and letters already received it is estimated that that single column will generate a million pieces of mail.

"I am immensely grateful that President Nixon has announced his support of some of the principles of S-34. The battle will not be won, however, until legislation passes both houses of Congress establishing a National Cancer Authority and making the conquest of the disease a National Cancer Authority and making the conquest of the disease a specific national goal. It will not be enough merely to utilize the existing machinery for cancer research."

The existing machinery has been around since 1937 and it is a jungle of red tape. The proposed National Cancer Authority would be an agency similar to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration which put the first man on the moon. If we had stayed with "the existing machinery" it is doubtful that we would have reached our national goal.

Your wires and letters in support of S-34 are letting Washington know we want a sharp realignment of priorities. We are no longer going to remain silent while medical research picks up the crumbs from the table after the military has finished its gourmet meals. The answers to the scourge of cancer can and will be found. I say a massive, unified assault on this killer disease is long overdue.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a youngish grandmother, just as you are, Ann. In fact, we are the same age. I work in a large office of a well known firm and I get along beautifully with the younger gals although I do not approve of the life style of some. Suddenly, I find myself unable to adjust to a certain situation in this office and it is upsetting me terribly.

Miss X is 27 years old and very pregnant. Her lover skipped town and left no forwarding address. The gal has announced she is keeping her baby and will work as long as she can because she needs the money. In the meantime she is big as a house and I would not be surprised if she gave birth at the water cooler.

I find her presence an embarrassment. I feel that in a subtle way she is telling all decent people to go to hell. What rankles me most is that the men in this office (both married and single) treat her with special respect and consideration. One unusually hardboiled type said, "I admire the girl's guts."

In short, this pregnant-out-of-wedlock dame winds up with more attention, consideration and admiration than most women get from their husbands. What do you think of it, Ann Landers?--Wash., D.C.

Dear Wash: I think it's beautiful -- especially the guys. One day when I'm in your city I'd like to come by your office and meet them.

I do not agree that the girl is telling all decent people to "go to hell." I believe she is dealing with an unusually difficult crisis in the way she feels is best -- for her. You need to retool your thinking, Dearie.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope.

West End Baptist Church Serves Free Dinners On Women's Day

Sunday was Women's Day at West End Baptist church. Free home-cooked meals were served in the church dining room after the worship services. A program honoring the women of the church followed lunch.

The day of festivities resulted from four months of cooking and serving meals at the church on Saturdays and Sundays. Since January, the meal sales have earned $1,162.

West End Church has prepared and sold dinners in its dining room four years, and Women's Day came in recognition of the workers' efforts as well as the response of the community to the fund-raising cause.

Sunday's menu included baked ham, fried chicken, potato salad, candied sweet potatoes, turnip greens, lima beans, green beans, gelatin salad, macaroni and cheese, lemon, apple, cheese and sweet potato pies, banana, chocolate, lemon and pound cake.

Women serving on the kitchen committee were Mrs. Velma Richardson, chairman of Women's Day, who has been employed by Dr. D. E. Urban more than 10 years; Mrs. Annie Hunt, who has been with the E.P. Miller Stops GHS

Major league baseball scouts took up about a fourth of the seats at VFW stadium Monday afternoon as the Sikeston Bulldogs and Gideon Canines battled for the sectional baseball title and a ticket to the regional at Cape Girardeau Friday afternoon. Sikeston won 1-0.

The major interest of the nearly 16 scouts was the pitching matchup of hard throwing Mark Little of Gideon against the smoth pitching talents of Sikeston's Don Miller.

The game proved to be just what it was labled "a pitching duel".

Miller won out over his opponent, to run his scoreless inning streak to 27 and his overall season mark to a sparkling 10-0 while moving the team to within three games of the state title.

A repeat of the district battle in which Miller hooked up against Cape Girardeau Central's lefthanded fireballer Mark Hogan for 10 innings before both left the game in favor of a prep rule and Sikeston finally won in the 12th, was forecast.

But a pair of seventh inning errors put an end to any thoughts of extra innings. Don Miller reached first on an error after he skied a ball up about 15 foot in front of home plate and three GHS players missed the cloud scraper. Miller stole second and raced home when an outfielder fumbled a single by John Vines.

The victory lifted the Bulldogs' record to 12-2 for the season, the only losses came at the hands of Cape Central and Chaffee early in the season.

SHS plays the winner of today's Festus sectional at Cape Girardeau Friday for the right to move to Springfield and the semifinals. Fox and Lafayette are scheduled to battle at 4 p.m. today in the sectional.

Lafayette, the defending champion, is favored. Sikeston dropped a 4-1 decision to it in egional play last season at Ste. Genevieve.

"Defense has been our strong point in the tournament," Coach N. P. McDaniel happily pointed out. "We were a little shaky early in the season, but we haven't allowed many runs since Cape gave up that skinning (9-0).

The Bulldogs face Cape Central in a regular season game Wednesday at Capaha Park and will put either Eddie McDowell or Bob Mitchell on the mound.

Miller will get the call to carry the Dogs into the state semi finals. The 6-foot-1 inch righthander fanned 14 Gideon batters in seven innings Monday while allowing three hits and walk. He also led the team in hitting with two for three, including a double in the first inning.

Series Final

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — The Utah Stars and Kentucky Colonels, bruised and exhausted after six rowdy plaoff games, will settle the American Basketball Association championship tonight in the seventh and final game.

The game, sold out at 13,208 only two hours after Kentucky tied the series at 3-3 Saturday in Louisville, Ky., will be televised locally and back to Kentucky.

Both teams were runners-up in their divisions, Kentucky losing out to Virginia in the East and Utah placing second to defending ABA champion Indiana in the West.

The Stars took the first two games against Kenlucky in the Salt Palace, lost the next two at Louisville, won at the Salt Palace and then lost at Louisville.

The games at Louisville were decided in the closing seconds; the ones at Salt Lake, where Kentucky has yet to win in six games—including regular season, were not close.

The winning team in tonight's game will split $48,130 and the losing team, $40,130.

The coaches, Frank Ramsey of Kentucky and Bill Sharman of Utah, played together for the Boston Celtics and they use the same plays. Both teams live by the fast break. And Ramsey and Sharman have the same aims going into the final game.

"We can't stand around," says Sharman. "We play better when we run."

"We've got to avoid turnovers and not slow down in the last quarter," Ramsey says. "That has happened to us in Utah."

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Harvard hockey and tennis standout Joe Cavanagh won the William J. Bingham Award and the Jack Fadden Award Monday night at the Senior Lettermen's Dinner.

The Bingham Award went to the Cranston, R.I., senior for "integrity, courage, leadership and ability" in athletics. The Fadden Award was given for overcoming physical adversity, a shoulder injury in his sophomore year.

HOWARDVILLE—Combination basketball and tennis courts are being constructed at five New Madrid County R-1 enlarged district schools under the Emergency School Assistance Act, financed by the federal government.

Work has started at Matthews school and completion of the courts at New Madrid, Howardville, Lilbourn and Parma is expected within a month. Manpower Development Training School trainees are providing labor.

Announcement of the recreational facilities was made by Mrs. Sandra Butler, New Madrid County R-1 board of education representative at the New Madrid County Shirtsleeves meeting.

STORRS, Conn. (AP) — Yankee Conference Commissioner J. Orlean Christian says there is a possibility that a decision may be made "within two or three weeks" on the admission of Holy Cross and Boston University to the Yankee Conference.

There are currently six universities in the conference— Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Connecticut.

BETHARD FREE

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Backup quarterback Pete Beathard of the St. Louis Cardinals technically is a free agent, a club spokesman said Tuesday.

"We are still in negotiation with him and are hopeful that we will work out a salary agreement, Cardonal publicist Joe Pollack said.

Obtained a year ago from the Houston Oilers, Beathard balked at signing a contract, thus playing out the option on the pact he had the year before. The terminal date for such contracts is May 1.

Tulsa Rips Cardinals

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Fred Rico clouted two home runs and led Tulsa to a 9-2 victory over the parents St. Louis Cardinals at Oiler Park Monday night in an exhibition baseball game.

A crowd of 5,181 saw the Oilers prevail for the second straight year and deadlock their series with the Cardinals at three victories each.

Randy Brown, making his first appearance as an Oiler, hit a two-run homer in the fourth off losing right-hander Mike Torrez.

Right-hander Carroll Sembera, second of five Tulsa pitchers, earned the victory.

Rico also figured in three other scoring innings for the Oilers with a pair of hits and his second homer of the game in the eighth inning.

The Cardinals, who lost 6-0 a year ago, averted a second straight shutout by scoring two runs in the seventh on three straight doubles by Dal Maxvill, Ted Sizemore and Jerry McNertney in the seventh inning.

Lilbourn Tri-County Champions

WARDELL — Lilbourn, winner of the northern division of the Tri-County Baseball League, wrapped up the league title in a playoff with the southern division winner Monday afternoon, beating North Pemiscot 4-3.

The Panthers pushed across the winning run in the seventh when Bruce Atchley doubled in Gary Mainord with two outs.

North Pemiscot broke a scoreless duel in the second inning by pushing across a pair of runs and stayed ahead until the fifth inning. Then the LHS diamond crew jumped ahead 3-2, with a two-run rally before the host tied the score in the last of the fifth and the game remained 3-3 until the seventh inning Lilbourn rally.

Mainord picked up the victory as Lilbourn ended its spring baseball campaign with 11-4 season record and ended North Pemiscots with a 12-2 mark.

Both teams finished 5-0 in league games.

BATTING— Ralph Garr, Braves, tied the game with a home run in the last of the 10th inning and won it with another shot into Atlanta Stadium's leftfield seats in the 12th as Atlanta trimmed the New York Mets 4-3.

PITCHING— Don Wilson, Astros, pitched a four hitter as Houston beat the San Diego Padres 2-0.

Garr Shows Power

The Roadrunner was standing on the corner, watching the baseball go bye, bye.

"Yep, I just watched the ball from the batter's box after I hit it," said Atlanta's Ralph Garr, who carries the "Roadrunner" tag for his blinding speed. "I knew it was out of the park— but I was afraid it might go foul."

The reason for the freeze, Garr said, was that he wanted to conserve his energy—in case the ball was foul "and I would need all my strength to run on the next ball."

Turns out, his fears were foundless. The ball clattered into the left-field seats in fair territory and gave the Braves a 4-3 victory over the New York Mets in the 11th inning Monday night.

"I'll never forget that," said Atlanta's prize new left-fielder who also had game-tying homer in the 10th and beefed his batting average to a National League-leading .44 with a 3-for6 night.

Pittsburgh beat Montreal 6-5, Philadelphia turned back Cincinnati 3-2 and Houston beat San Diego 2-0 in the only other National League action.

In the American League, it was New York 6, Baltimore 3; Cleveland 6, Washington 3; Boston 3; Detroit 2, and Minnesota 3, California 2.

New York had AL Weis on third base with the potential lead run in the 11th inning when Atlanta's Bob Priddy threw one of his pitches over the catcher's head. But the ball ricocheted off a back wall and shot back before Weis had a chance to come home.

Garr not only made the timely hits, but timely catches as well. He made two robberies of drives in the outfield, including Bud Harrelson's long belt up the alley in left-center, which the "Roadrunner" simply outran.

Orlando Cepeda was another Brave hero, stroking a homer off Seaver to lead off the ninth that tied the game 2-2. New York's Don Clendenon then ripped his second homer of the game to give the Mets a 3-2 bulge before Garr came through.

Roberto Clemente, who unloaded a homer in the eighth, cracked a two-run triple in the ninth to give Pittsburgh a come-back victory over Montreal.

The Pirates trailed 5-4 when Gene Alley opened the last of the ninth with a single off Expos' reliever Mike Marshall. Gene Clines sacrificed Alley to second and he held there as Dave Cash beat out an infield hit.

Vic Davalillo flied out, but then Clemente hit the center field wall with his drive to score the tying and winning runs.

Clemente had left five runners stranded prior to his batting splurge, coaxing boos from the 6,431 faithful at Three Rivers Stadium.

Mike Ryan's tie-breaking homer in the eighth helped Philadelphia's Jim Bunning break a six-game losing streak.

Bunning checked the Reds on five hits for eight innings and drove in the Phillies' first two runs with a sacrifice fly and homer. Darrell Brandon pitched the ninth for Philadelphia, surviving a two-out triple by Bernie Carbo.

Don Wilson fired a four-hitter and Jack Hiatt and Jim Wynn delivered run-scoring singles in the Houston cause. The only run Wilson needed to gain his fourth victory in six decisions was an unearned tally in the second inning.

With two out, Doug Rader singled and Jesus Alou was safe on an error. Hiatt then sliced a single to score Rader. Wynn's infield single brought hom Joe Morgan from third with Houston's other run in the eighth.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Canonero II, surprise winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, was scheduled to take a "victory" walk in front of the Pimlico stands today as a tug of war appeared to be developing for his services.

Meanwhile Canonero, who was to depart for New York Thursday for the June 5 Belmont Stakes, appeared to be facing steadily dwindling opposition for the third leg of the Triple Crown.

Pedro Baptista, who races the colt in the name of his sonin-law, Edgar Caibett, said he would be in Miami Thursday to discuss a $4 million bid from a Florida syndicate for the $1,200 yearling.

And the Venezuelan government, which controls racing in the colt's home country, reportedly was interested in buying the horse to spur interest in breeding in the South American nation.

"The government officials have said they would like to keep him at home," a spokesman said Monday, "to spur interest in breeding created by Canonero in the Derby and Preakness.

"But I doubt if the government can match the offer of the people in Miami," he continued. "If the government offers anything less, Mr. Baptista would be a poor businessman to accept it."

Baptista, a Caracas businessman, said he would have to retain four shares in any syndication, keep any earnings from the Belmont Stakes, with the horse running under the original ownership in the Belmont.

Canonero II, with a chance to become the first Triple Crown winner since Citation in 1948, has scared off quite a bit of opposition for the final leg.

Jim French, runner-up in the Derby and third in the Preakness, appears to be the only certain repeater from the previously beaten fields.

Eastern Fleet, runner-up by 1½ lengths in the Preakness as Canonero II set a Pimlico track record of 1:54 for 1 3-16 miles, is still a question mark.

Other possibilities for the Belmont include Good Behaving, who would be an entry with Jim French for trainer Johnny Campo; Bold Reasoning, unbeaten winner of the recent Withers Stakes; Run The Gantlet and On Your Toes.

NCAA-AAU Talks

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A pollible thaw in the long standing feud between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union was hinted Tuesday by the president of the NCAA.

Dr. Earl Ramer indicated in a carefully prepared statement after meeting with AAU President Jack Kelly of Philadelphia, that relations might improve between the two organizations.

"While no commitments involving either organization were made, it is my feeling that through improved understanding of our mutual concerns, a greater cooperation may develop."—Ramer said.

The AAU has been the traditional governing body but the NCAA has prohibited college athletes from participating in AAU meets under threat of stripping them of their scholarship.

DAVID "BEAR" McCLARTY comes up two steps short on his attempt to beat out a hot smash down to shortstop during Monday's sectional baseball game at VFW stadium against the Gideon Bulldogs. Sikeston won, 1-0.

A Weekly Information Service for Consumers

By MARGARET DANA

All those who are honestly concerned about our national air pollution problem should make this coming week a time to study a related problem -- our national transportation systems. They hang together and affect every life, no matter where we live.

This is National Transportation Week, and I have been spending some time in Washington, D.C., talking to those whose responsibilities in our Department of Transportation include finding sound solutions to complex transportation problems. We are a people who move constantly -- from our homes to schools, offices, stores, meetings, and all that, as well as bigger moves from city to city and state to state. We need a good many different kinds of transportation, and the job now is to find out which ones, for which purposes, serve us best -- and provide least air pollution in the process.

As you know by now, the major part of the country's railroad passenger service has been transferred to a corporation, called AMTRAK, set up by Congress. I collected some important facts about mass transportation via railroad as I talked with those concerned with making it work. The truth is that we must balance better our kinds of travel if we are to save our air, and at the same time keep efficient and safe transportation.

During the past 20 years two travel methods have, of course, grown enormously – automobiles and airplanes. More than 173 million used air transportation last year, and the number of motor vehicles increased tenfold over 20 years ago, giving us 100 million today which drive a trillion miles annually. You have been told a good many times in the past year or two how much these two methods of transportation have added to air pollution. At the same time other methods which produce little or no air pollution, like the railroads, have dwindled to a shadow.

This does not mean that crusaders should suddenly rise and demand an end to airplanes and automobiles. It does mean consumers have an obligation to look at the situation and recognize that selective travel methods could balance the problem and bring about great air- quality improvement. President Nixon on March 31 made a statement regarding some proposals for transportation improvement and said, "A balanced transportation system provides adequate transportation not just for SOME of the people in a community but for ALL the people. It recognizes an individual can have DIFFERENT transportation needs at different times."

What we are belatedly recognizing is that we have almost lost one of the vitally important choices in this balanced picture of different needs and methods -- railroad passenger service. The assignment Congress has given AMTRAK is to bring back railroad passenger service between cities to serve the country as a national right.

If you wonder why this is so important to reduction of air pollution, study these facts: It takes FOUR TIMES as much power -- or "thrust" -- to move an automobile on rubber tires on a concrete road as it does to move a railway car on its tracks. A railroad train needs only about 16 horsepower per passenger, with insignificant air pollution, while a motor vehicle must have 10 TIMES tha horsepower per passenger -- and it contributes heavily to air pollution. A single railroad track can handle 40,000 passengers an hour, while one highway lane can handle only around 1,200 cars an hour, which carry 2,000 passengers on the average. See the difference?

As I talked with Katherine May, who was long an effective and popular Congresswoman from the State of Washington and is now vice - chairman of the AMTRAK Board, we thought of many things besides reduced air pollution that the renewal of good passenger service by rail could do for consumers. For instance, it provides a chance for whole families to go on land cruises and see America close up at first hand; a chance to travel quietly and safely no matter what the weather; a chance to slow down the whole great pressure of today's hurry-hurry life while getting where we want to go.

AMTRAK began operation on May 1. Don't expect any miraculous changes to start. But, while many trains and lines will be shut down while the new plan gets underway, if we give it patience, confidence and support, it won't be long before more and more new trains will be servicing all parts of the country.

THE 1971 ISSUE of the Missouri Sesquicentennial Medallion. The obverse side shows the current and first state capitols, with the words, "150 Years of Statehood". The reverse side shows an outline of the state, with symbols depicting Missouri's contribution to the nation's growth, such as, a covered wagon, a Mississippi River steamboat, Lindy's famous "Spirit of St. Louis", and a space age capsule. The medallion was designed by H. Richard Duhme, Associate Professor of Sculpture at Washington University, St. Louis, and is now available at banks and savings and loan associations throughout the state of Missouri.

Missouri Medallions Ready

The 1971 issue of the Missouri Sesquicentennial commemorative medallions is now available at participating banks and savings and loan associations throughout Missouri.

The design, created and sculpted by H. Richard Duhme Jr., assoc. professor of sculpture, Washington University, St. Louis, features Missouri's current and first state capitols joined together with the words, "150 Years of Statehood".

The reverse side depicts modes of transportation involved in Missouri's growth...covered wagon, Mississippi River steam boat, Lindy's famous "Spirit of St. Louis", and a space capsule. The modes of transportation surround an outline of the state.

The .999 fine silver medallions are $10 each and are limited in issue to 15,000. The bronze medallions, unlimited in issue, are selling for $1 each. It is expected that the Missouri Sesquicentennial medallions, like so many other commemorative issues, will become collectors' items.

Missouri's financial institutions are cooperating with the Missouri Sesquicentennial Commission in offering the medallions to the public on a not-for-profit basis. Funds from the sale of the medallions are being used to underwrite the cost of Missouri's Sesquicentennial activities.

Two Couples Killed after Funeral Rites

SENATH— Two Flint, Mich. couples, who were in Senath Friday to attend the funeral of their uncle, were killed enroute home in an automobile crash which critically injured another.

Local friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. James Harold Masterson and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Masterson, were notified by Illinois authorities of the deaths of the two brothers and their wives. A sister of the Mastersons, Shirley, 16, was reported critically injured.

Early reports indicated the two couples stopped in Illinois to spend Friday night with their grandmother, then enroute home to Flint Saturday were killed in the crash.

The Masterson brothers' parents were formerly Senath area residents.

Mother Gets Life Term for Slaying Son

NEW YORK (AP) -- Alice Crimmins, still declaring her innocence, was sentenced to life in prison Thursday for the murder of her 5-year-old son. Judge George Balbach, also sentenced Mrs. Crimmons, 32, to a concurrent term of 5 to 20 years for first -degree murder in the death of her son, Edmund, and first - degree manslaughter in the death of her daughter, Alice Marie.

The life sentence was mandatory for first - degree murder.

The blonde, blue-eyed brother and sister were reported missing from their cribs the morning of July 14, 1965.

After a police investigation of more than two years, Mrs. Crimmins was arrested and charged with strangling the girl. Tried in 1968 for first - degree murder, she was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to a maximum of 20 years in prison. The verdict was upset on appeal because three jurors had made an unauthorized visit to the area of the Crimmins apartment.

During the second trial, the state contended Mrs. Crimmins killed the girl in a fit of anger, then called upon and as yet unidentified man for help. He was said to have killed the boy to seal his lips and to make it appear that an outsider had commited the slayings.

The defense stuck with the claim that the children had disappeared from their cribs.

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)–Gov. Warren E. Hearnes re-appointed Dr. William C. Hayes Jr. of Rolla today as state geologist and director of geological survey and water resources.

Albert C. Riley, New Madrid Democrat, and William Ryan Logan, Silex Democrat, were re-appointed to the State Highway Commission for six-year terms.

Other re-appointments:

James J. Butler of Wardsville as chairman of the industrial commission of Missouri.

Dr. James T. Brown, Springfield Democrat, and Dr. R. Jerome Williams, St. Louis Democrat as members of the State Board of Healing Arts.

Larry Woods, Columbia Democrat, and J. F. Hedgepeth, Ozark Republican, as members of the State Banking Board.

House Advances Lower Voting Age Resolution

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) -- The Missouri House Thursday advanced a resolution to ratify a U.S. constitutional change lowering the voting age to 18.

It now is ready for final House consideration.

A similar resolution is still pending in Senate committee.

The House rejected, 57-83, a proposal that a constitutional convention be called to draft a state charter, replacing the one that has existed since 1945.

The vote came after sharp questions were asked about the probable costs and whether many of the 83 delegates that would draft the constitution would actually be representing special interests.

Rep. James F. Conway, D-St. Louis, sponsored the proposal and said it has the support of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and of many leading organizations.

In answer to a question Conway said it would cost about $2.5 million to have a constitutional convention.

The House also advanced a proposed change in the Missouri Constitution to give a 25-year tax abatement authority on forestry land or residential real property that is rehabilitated or redeveloped.

A PLAN FOR INCREASED BENEFITS FOR OUT OF WORK VIETNAM VETERANS

Three monghs ago in this column I wrote about the plight of Vietnam veterans who are unable, in this time of inflation and high unemployment, to find jobs upon leaving the service.

I wish I could say that the situation is better now, but it is not. The current unemployment rate among returning servicemen is 12% -- twice the national rate. Right now about 352,000 veterans are without jobs -- and more than 900,000 servicemen will be separated from the Armed Forces during the coming year.

Until the economy is straightened out the job picture will remain bleak. Last Year Congress attempted to help by passing a bill to provide expanded job counselling, training and placement for veterans. It was vetoed by the President as "too inflationary."

Recently I took a necessary, although stop -gap, step by introducing a bill to increase unemployment benefits for veterans. My bill would guarantee them a minimum weekly benefit of $75 for up to 52 weeks.

NO BRASS BANDS

Not only are there no brass bands to meet our Vietnam veteans, there are no jobs, either. The least we can do is to provide enough unemployment compensation to help them live a little better while they are searching for work.

The trouble with unemployment compensation currently is, first, that there is a great variation in the benefits to which the veteran is entitled, depending on his state, although they are uniformly inadequate and, second, that the period of entitlement is too short, usually only 26 weeks.

In Missouri the maximum weekly benefit is $57 a week for 26 weeks. Nationally about 20 per cent of veterans are still looking for work after drawing their last unemployment check. At this point the returning veteran's alternative is to go on welfare.

My bill is patterned on special legislation enacted by Congress after World War II and the Korean War. The "52-20 Club" after World War II provided relief of $20 a week for 52 weeks for unemployed veterans. My bill would set up a "52-75 Club." We owe our veterans no less.

Jobs Greatest Need of Low Income People

NEW MADRID -- Employment for low income persons remains the greatest need, Lafayette McKinnie, Multi-Agency Coordinating Center, pointed out in an Operation Shirtsleeves meeting.

McKinnie said progress has been made in housing, sewerage, vocational training, road improvements, community betterment and jobs since the organization of agency representatives and concerned citizens started in October of 1969.

Educational opportunities for adults and increased facilities for job training, McKinnie noted, should make it possible for more people to qualify for diversified types of work.

Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation personnel, Dixie Washburn, Janene Wyatt, Laura Johnson, Oneita Lancaster and Bea Smith told of activities for senior citizens. Senior citizen programs could be extended to include more communities if facilities were made available.

Howardville Mayor Travis Howard offered the use of the town hall as a meeting place for senior citizens.

Mrs. Betty Renfrow, DAEOC youth coordinator and H. B. Mitchell, New Madrid County R-1 enlarged school district director of Title I programs have been invited to attend the June 14 Shirtsleeves meeting to give more information about youth recreational programs.

Options for Big Lake Obtained

CHARLESTON--The Big Lake project committee of the Mississippi County Recreation Association reported this week that all necessary options for purchase of the 143 acres of lake area property have been secured.

James Ponder, president of the Association, said his group appreciates the help of everyone who cooperated with the committee in providing the options, or in other ways helped with the project.

The options on the 143-acre lake have now been sent to the office of Missouri Attorney General John Danforth for a final legal check once the Attorney General's approval is given, the lake property will be purchased by the Association, using over $15,000 in funds raised in a public drive last December.

The Association will then deed the site to the Missouri Conservation Commission. The Commission plans to develop a permanent fishing lake by re-routing the Big Lake Drainage Ditch and constructing a dam and levee to impound water in the lake basin.

Charles Brink, secretary of the association, said it is possible that construction of the lake can begin late this summer, but if not, by next spring at latest.

Ponder also announced plans for development of other fishing areas in Mississippi County.

He praised the work of R. Q. Brown and the Association's membership committee for securing 770 dues-paying members for 1971. "Dues from these members will enable the Association to work on several projects this year," he said.

Among the projects, Ponder said, are:

Tom Bird Blue Hole— The Conservation Commission is scheduled to build a good road and approach as soon as levee work in the area is completed, probably next summer;

Wolf Island Chute— The Recreation Association will be working on access to this area as soon as logging operations are completed;

Newcum Chute— The Rolwing Brothers have donated a tractor and labor to make a new approach to the chute area, and the Bone brothers have hauled in gravel for the roads.

The president asked all members to make suggestions on projects they would like to see undertaken by the Association. He said members with projects to suggest should contact Bill Chron, Hunt Wellborn or Charles Brink.

Time Off Allowed For Active Duty

ST. LOUIS--Employers in Missouri were reminded today that Reservists and National Guardsmen are entitled to time off from their jobs to perform active duty for training.

The reminder came from Cecil L. Utterback, Regional Administrator of the Labor-Management Services Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, in Kansas City.

Upon their return from training, Reservists and National Guardsmen have a legal right to be restored to their positions with the same seniority, status, pay and vacation rights as they previously held.

The law also prohibits any kind of employment discrimination against a Reservist or Guardsman because of his participation in the program.

Utterback pointed out that military training duty for Guardsmen and Reservists normally occurs during the summer months, and it can be expected that most of them will be absent from employment for two or three weeks of training during this period.

Reservists and Guardsmen were cautioned by Utterback to notify their employers before leaving for training and to report back to their jobs immediately upon completion of their tours, or they may forfeit their statutory re-employment protection.

Additional information and literature about the employment rights of Reservists and National Guardsmen can be obtained by contacting the Labor-Management Services Administration offices at 911 Walnut St., Kansas City, Mo. 64106 or 210 North 12th Boulevard, St. Louis, Missouri 63101.

?Consumer's Question Box?

By Margaret Dana

Q. Many of my friends use the new "Brown-in-Bag" foods which they like very much. I am tempted to use them, too, but wonder if they might contain some harmful chemical that would affect the foods in the bags. Would you comment, please?

A. One of the duties of the Food and Drug Administration is to make sure that packaging of foods is harmless to the consumer. All types of food packaging -- from milk cartons to plastic wraps -- are tested to be sure of their safety before they are marketed. The wrapping you speak of would have to be cleared also before being used in this way.

Q. I have a problem I would like your help with. I have a new bed blanket whose label says it is made of 95 per cent rayon. I heard in the news that anything over 35 per cent will burn easily. So what should I do with this blanket? Is it safe to use?

A. Rayon is one of the highly flammable fibers, especially when it is used in a nap or furry surface. The National Bureau of Standards is working on standards for products which may present an unreasonble risk and which the consumer public may not understand as risks. Blankets are being investigated now, and a rayon blanket, containing 95 per cent rayon would probably not even pass old standards for flame-resistance. If nobody in your house smokes, and no heaters or flames are ever in your room, it may be safe.

Q. I recently bought an electric insect trap that uses crystals to create a vapor that kills bugs. Now that I have it home I see the label says: "For Commercial and Business Use -- Nor For the Home." But I bought it in a housewares department. Will you comment on its safety for use in the home?

A. The maker of the insect trap has already commented on this, and to the point. This type of bug-killer is not safe for use in the home or where people are in the room that is to be vaporized.

The Pesticide Regulation Division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture requires that all electronic bug-killers using lindane chemical crystals of the continually operating type must be labeled "Not for Home Use," and must be used in industrial situations only according to strict rules.

There is a one-shot type of vaporizer that has been accepted for home use provided the room is unoccupied at the time of treatment. Even this has become the object of critical question as to safety.

Q. We recently read with alarm that irradiated canned bacon was rejected by the armed forces as unfit for human consumption. We would like to avoid this kind of processed food. How can we do this?

A. At present a large-scale investigation is going on in regard to the whole theory of food irradiation as a preservative. Until this is completed and dependable facts are available, irradiated food will not be marketed, although the irradiated bacon had been accepted by the armed forces several years ago and used during this time. No research has yet been published that calls the bacon "unfit for human consumption."

Q. I saw recently on TV a commercial of some sort which seemed to be a warning against lead in paint, but which I suppose was really a paint promotion. It pictured children acutally eating bits of paint off a wall which had begun to peel. This is, of course, ridiculous, as no child, no matter how hungry, is going to eat scratchy rough pieces of paint. And no grownup with any sense is going to sit there and watch a child do it without stopping it. I wonder if this wasn't a phony commercial to scare people away from one brand of paint to another?

A. It was an authentic serious warning that thousands of children are made ill or die from eating paint particles containing lead. Usually this happens in old buildings. Today's paints are generally lead-free. But old paint needs urgently to be removed and new paint put on, because it happens to be true, unlikely as it sounds, that many small children do pick at painted walls and eat what they scratch off -- with tragic results.

Q. I was shopping at a local discount grocery last weekend and checking eggs before buying by opening the carton as usual. In one I saw three feathers protruding from one egg -- actually a chick was hatching. I was almost sick at the sight. How could such an egg be put in a carton? Aren't eggs checked by candling first? What went wrong?

A. In the first place, it is simple common sense to buy only government - graded eggs that carry the U. S. Department of Agriculture's grade mark. This mark gives assurance that the eggs were of a specific quality at the time of testing, and if they have been properly handled since then there will be little loss of quality. They should always, of course, be kept in refrigerated cases.

Carton of government - graded eggs are marked by a shield -shaped symbol printed on the carton or the paper tape used to seal it. Unless you are entirely familiar with the discount store's practices in buying and storing eggs, be careful about buying bargain eggs.

Newlyweds Should Think about Taxes

ST. LOUIS--Should a June bride take her accountant along on her honeymoon? Not necessarily, but it might be a good idea to check with him when she gets back.

C. Robert Meyer, president of the Missouri Society of Certified Public Accountants, points out that marriage changes one's income tax status, especially if both husband and wife plan to continue working. If they don't arrange to have withholdings from their paychecks coincide with their expectable tax obligations, they may end the year owing considerably more than has been withheld.

The problem arises, Meyer says, from the fact that the withholding charts do not take into account the possibility that the taxpayer's spouse also has income, moving him into a higher tax bracket.

To avoid having too little tax withheld, Mr. Meyer advises working newlyweds to compute what their taxes for the year will be, then ask their employers to withhold enough to cover them. Such computations should be based on both joint and individual filings, to determine which results in the lesser tax liability.

One reason for a working couple to file separate returns, Meyer says, would be heavy medical bills incurred by one of them. Three percent of adjusted gross income must be subtracted from such bills before they can be deducted and three percent of one income is less than three percent of both.

In some instances, provisions of the 1969 Tax Reform Act that took effect this year favor single taxpayers over married ones, a reversal of the policy that has prevailed since 1948. If both man and wife have substantial incomes they may find themselves paying more taxes than they would if single.

They can't avoid this by filing separate returns, Meyer says, because the lower rates apply only to unmarried individuals.

Is Uncle Sam discouraging marriage?

"That's one interpretation that might be put on it," Meyer concludes.

Community Service Award to Story

JEFFERSON CITY--George Story of Charleston was one of 33 awarded the annual Missouri Community Betterment service award to individuals, Everett M. Lee, State Community Betterment director, announced.

The director explained, "The business and civic leaders receiving the 1970 service awards made an outstanding contribution to the Missouri Community Betterment program by assisting local community betterment groups accomplish civic improvement projects."

Name Change For Appliance Store in City

The name is not the only thing that has changed says Kenneth Coffey, owner of Coffey T. V. and Appliance, formerly Campbell Appliance.

The store at 107 West Center, is celebrating its first year anniversary with a name change. Coffey said since he became owner of the operation, an improved kitchen appliance and kitchen cabinets has been added.

Coffey took over operation in May of 1970 but did not change the name until May of 1971. The first year anniversary celebrations will run through May.

Coffey and his wife, Alma, the proprietors, are two - year residents of Sikeston. They moved from Jonesboro, Ark. and live at 111 Winter Drive.

You can't live on love forever.

Okay, you're young. You've got all the love in the world and you're doing your best to live on it. Retirement? That's for when you're old, right?

It's for when you're old if you can afford it.

The kind of retirement you're after isn't the typical rocking-away-on-the-front-porch variety. You probably picture yourself taking extended vacations, pursuing hobbies, or buying that forty acres and living off the land. Pipe dreams? Not if you prepare now.

There's an easy, painless way to make your retirement dreams a reality. Join the Payroll Savings Plan where you work. That way, an amount you specify will be set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's an easy way to save.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½%, when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Now is the time to start saving. Money's a nice thing to have while you're living on love forever.

Bonds are safe. If lost, stolen, or destroyed, we replace them. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Tax may be deferred until redemption. And always remember, Bonds are a proud way to save.

Take stock in America.
Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Drug Problem Could End in 2 Years But for Marijuana

ST. LOUIS (AP)— Without the problem of marijuana the nation's drug problem could be solved within two years, a Narcotics Service Council official said Tuesday.

NASCO director William Harvey, speaking at a workshop of the Missouri Public Health Association, said the fact marijuana can lead to other drugs complicates the problem.

The "emerging heroin scene" on the West Coast, Harvey said, dispels the theory that "soft drug abuse" doesn't lead to hard drug addiction.

St. Louis and the Midwest are about a year and a half behind the West Coast in drug abuse but can be expected to catch up, he said.

Among those responsible for drug abuse are "prescriptionprone parents who haul their kids off to a doctor for the slightest indisposition," he contended.

Harvey urged law enforcement agencies to uncover bigtime drug dealers and distributors, including "governments like Turkey and France, which are the principle sources of the flow of illegal drugs to this country."

Wages, Taxes, Crime Threat To Small Business Survival

WASHINGTON (AP) — Excessive wage demands, rapidly rising taxes and the high cost of crime were singled out Monday as major threats against the survival of small businesses.

"A continuance of the wage trends of the recent past, especially in the building trades, is a luxury this nation simply cannot afford," said Wilson S. Johnson, president of the 28year-old National Federation of Indepdendent Business.

He spoke to 1,500 federation members gathered here for their first annual convention. They are to hear President Nixon Wednesday.

Wage boosts far exceeding productivity have acclerated U.S. inflation, Johnson of San Mateo, Calif., said, while national productivity has lagged. Eight other countries have surpassed this country, he said, in the rate of improvement in output per man-hour in the past five years—Japan, Germany, France, the Netherlands, Sweden, Italy, Canada and Britain.

The increase in thefts, robbery and vandalism and the escalating cost of crime insurance "are problems eating at the very vitals of independent business," Johnson said, adding:

"A substantial number of small businesses either are not insured at all, or have serious trouble buying insurance."

Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., told the federation the Tax Reform Act of 1969 "turned out to be a setback for the small business community."

The administration's tax proposals have had big business tax relief as their primary aim, Bible said in a prepared luncheon address, "with no realistic consideration given to the needs of small business."

Bible is the co-author of legislation which would provide federal tax forgiveness for three years to new small enterprises. It also would apply the graduated income tax principle to business taxation. Present law calls for a 22 per cent tax on the first $25,000 of a corporation's taxable earnings, then 48 per cent on the rest.

The Bible legislation would start with 20 per cent on the first $50,000, followed by a sliding scale of increased rates for higher incomes.

Ear Infection Delays Sixth Son's Entry Into Service

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Medical examiners found a minor ear infection Thursday that will hold up for possibly a week or so Steven Earl Powell's attempt to become the sixth son in his family to join the armed forces.

Powell, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Powell of Webb City, Mo., was taking his final medical and mental examinations at the armed forces examining and entrance station when the disqualifying condition was detected.

The commanding officer of the activity, Lt. Col. Dean Boyle, said the youth expressed a determination to return home and come back as soon as the condition is cleared up.

Powell said he had always planned on joining the armed forces, just as his five older brothers had done before him. One brother, Robert Powell, was killed in 1969 in Vietnam.

The other brothers include James, who served in the Navy and who now lives in Webb City; Bill, who served in the Missouri National Guard and who lives in Kansas City, Don, stationed now with the Army at Ft. Knox, Ky., and who expected to finish his hitch in time to enroll at Missouri Southern College in Joplin next fall; and David, who recently completed two years in the Marine Corps and who now lives in Webb City.

The family has another son, Doug, 15, who says he plans to enter the service as soon as he is eligible. He is a sophomore at Webb City High School. Two daughters, Connie and Rose, also live with their parents. The father has been a heavy equipment mechanic for 20 years. A street in Webb City was named in honor of the deceased Robert Powell shortly after his death in Vietnam.

Bonds, School Levies Draw Mixed Response

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

On the fifth try, the Logan-Rogersville school district finally received the necessary two-thirds majority approval Tuesday of a $200,000 bond issue.

The bond was coupled with a 10 cent levy increase and was approved by a vote of 722 to 361.

Bond issues also were approved by school districts at Ozark and Smithville, while Joplin and Park Hill proposals were defeated and a 75-cent increase in the operating levy failed at North Kansas City.

In a municipal election, voters at West Plains rejected a proposed two mill city park levy by a vote of 454 against to 227 for.

Ozark's $348,000 bond issue was coupled with a 35 cent levy increase and passed 514 to 219.

It will finance an intermediate school for grades five through eight.

Smithville approved, 269 to 47, a $160,000 school bond issue.

Joplin's proposed 24 cent levy increase lost by four votes, 2,826 to 2,822. Only a simple majority was needed. The proposal was defeated by more than 500 votes in April.

Park Hill, a district in Platte County that serves Parkville and a portion of Kansas City north, for the third time failed to muster the needed two-thirds majority to pass a $2,350,000 contruction bond issue.

The operating levy loss in North Kansas City was the first recorded in the district. The proposed 75 cent increase, which would have gone entirely for teacher salaries, got only 56 per cent approval, 3,810 to 2,982 while it needed two-thirds.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

Count it all joy, my brethren, when you meet various trials, for you know that the testing of your faith produces steadfastness. (James 1:2-3, RSV)

PRAYER: Father, help us each day to live as Thou wouldst have us live. Keep our attitudes healthy and our service Christlike. Make us steadfast in our works and may our brothers see faith through our actions. We ask in Thy name. Amen.

It's The Law

Objector Allowed to Ballot

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Because Alvin was firm in his convictions, he was convicted of refusing to report for induction into the army. A sincere and religious bone fide conscientious objector, he was given a three years in the pokey for violating the Selective Service Act.

And, while he bore no hard feelings for those responsible for his confinement, he did become rather incensed when he was later prevented from voting in a national election because of his criminal record.

"Sorry," he was told, "but, under state law, anyone convicted of an infamous crime just isn't permitted to vote."

"But, I didn't commit any infamous crime," responded Alvin in a pious and patient fashion. "I was convicted of refusing to kill my fellow human beings for religious reasons. That's not infamous! That's commendable!"

Determined to regain his right to vote, Alvin took the matter to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you deny pious Alvin the right to vote?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that the law disqualifying a person from voting because he has committed an "infamous crime" was intended to protect the ballot box from normally corrupt and dishonest people. A person who is a bona fide conscientious objector and who has been convicted of refusing to report for induction, concluded the judge, has not been convicted of an "infamous" crime.

JACK ANDERSON SAYS: Labor Department Makes Deal With Garment Workers Union; Agrees Not To Prosecute For Illegal Loans To Officers; Accepts Promises To Reduce Loans But Sets No Deadlines

Action to Halt Strike Begins

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Labor Committee approved 13 to 1 today a resolution designed to halt, until Oct. 1, the nationwide rail strike called by the signalmen's union.

The committee acted as the strike sent mounting ripples of paralysis through much of the economy for the second day.

Sponsors of the resolution said they hoped it could clear the Senate in a few hours and then be combined later in the day with House legislation, and sent on to President Nixon.

The committee included in its resolution an approximate 17 per cent wage increase for the 13,000 members of the signalmen's union.

Thus it revised considerably the proposal sent to Congress Monday by Nixon after the strike began.

The President had proposed a simple extension of the nostrike period to July 1 without any wage increase.

But members of the Labor Committee decided that the men should receive an interim wage increase since they had been working 22 months without one. The wage boost included in the committee's resolution covers the first three steps of a wage package recommended by an emergency board.

Shortly before the committee action, House Republican Gerald Ford of Michigan, emerged from a White House meeting with President Nixon and accused the Democratic-controlled Congress of "Foot-dragging" on legislation to end the strike and enact permanent legislation for dealing with similar labor disputes.

"The economy of the United States will suffer more and our tax loss will be greater by further delay in consideration of rail strike legislation than would ever be saved by troop reductions in Europe," Ford said.

The Senate committee also wrote into its resolution a provision calling on secretaries of Labor, Transportation and Defense to submit to Congress a report on the effects of this strike.

Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., the committee chairman, said he hoped this data could be used by his panel in trying to draft some form of permanent legislation to deal with national emergency strikes.

The only member to vote against the resolution was Sen. Robert Packwood, R-Ore.

Major steel and automobile firms slashed production, tons of perishable foods piled up on rail sidings, 300,000 commuters had to find other transportation and the New York stock market suffered its sharpest loss in a year.

President Nixon, telling Congress "it is essential that our railroads continue to operate," asked the strike be halted until July 1 to allow more time for the industry to bargain with the 13,000 members of the striking Brotherhood of Railroad Signalmen.

The Senate Labor Committee, after hearing from the railroads, the union and Nixon administration spokesmen, indicated sentiment for extending the delay to Oct. 1 and writing signalmen an immediate pay increase.

Both sides in the dispute promised to abide by such a plan which would raise top pay for signalmen from the present $3.78 an hour to $4.46.

The Interstate Commerce Commission today ordered trucks, buses and inland barges and ships to give priority to hauling such items as food, fuel, and health necessities while trains are not running.

ICC Chairman George M. Stafford said the order would remain in effect until the strike was ended.

Strike-delaying legislation likely would reach the President's desk tonight unless the House and Senate approve widely different plans requiring more time for compromise.

The signalmen struck at dawn Monday after all legal delays had been exhausted over more than 16 months of negotiations.

Some 500,000 other rail workers in the tightly unionized industry refused to cross picket lines of signalmen who install, inspect and maintain trackside electric signal devices.

Spokesmen said the steel industry—already stockpiling in anticipation of a possible strike of its own when its contracts expire in August—was forced into immediate production cutbacks.

U.S. Steel, the nation's biggest producer of steel, reduced coke production 10 per cent Monday and said if the walkout lasts 48 hours, "the problems will really start to get serious."

Senate Chokes Police Training Agency Bill

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Senate plugged away in debate on its own bills again today, scheduling both a morning and afternoon session.

Monday the Senate strangled with amendments a bill to set up a separate state agency to train local law enforcement officers.

Then the sponsor, Sen. Jack Gant, D-Independence, laid it over and is not expected to call it up again.

Opponents said the proposal was a boondoggle and a costly new agency that would duplicate the work of the Highway Patrol Academy and the Kansas City and St. Louis Police Academies.

One amendment would have required the trainees to be instructed in courage, without defining that intangible attribute.

The Senate found its way out of one dilemna by adopting a resolution urging Gov. Warren E. Hearnes to put the surplus property unit of the Department of Education under the merit system to meet federal requirements and prevent the cutoff of $3 million worth of surplus property a year.

The property goes to cities, counties, schools, colleges, hospitals and other public agencies. The resolution now goes to the House.

Sen. William J. Cason, DClinton, said the governor had agreed to issue such an executive order if the legislature asked him to do so.

Earlier, the Senate had vetoed the governor's reorganization plan to put the surplus property unit under the merit system but shift it from the Department of Education to the purchasing agent's office.

Clean Water!

To Matthews in July After Three-Year Absence

MATTHEWS — Mayor Harold Burch said residents of Matthews will begin drinking "clean water" in July.

"Everything will hopefully be in operation by July," Burch said.

Clean water has eluded residents of this small community three years. Water has been dirty and evil smelling.

Burch commented:

"All we need to do now is sell water to the FHA water district in the Canalou area. We are extending 700 feet of main line pipe along the highway from the city limits to the first ditch where the FHA will hook on. This should be done by the end of the week."

After that is completed, Burch said, Bridger Plumbing and Heating, Sikeston, needs to hook up the main line to the filtering system to complete the Matthews water system.

The city tackled much of the work itself because of lack of funds. It dug a new well, installed new water pipe and built a filtration plant.

Burch said the city installed 4,196 feet of four-inch plastic pipe approved by the water district. "The city also installed four fire hydrants and 3,000 feet of six-inch main line pipes," he said.

The old water system in Matthews started in 1959 with the construction of a main pump with water capacity of 987 feet. Three years ago, the pump went out and it cost the city $4,000 to repair it. A stand-by well was built three years ago with a 127 foot depth.

Last year the main pump went out again costing the city $2,300 for repairs.

Standard-Plaza Art Show Friday

The first annual Bootheel Youth Art Show, sponsored by the Daily Standard and Kingsway Plaza Mall will be Friday, and Saturday, from 11 a.m. until 8 p.m., at the plaza on South Kingshighway.

Prizes will be awarded for best in show and first, second and third places in each of four categories — grades 3-5, 6-8, 9-10, and 11-12.

More than 400 student art objects are scheduled for display. They include paintings, drawings, ceramics, and sculpture entered by Bootheel school students.

Continued Strike Will Hurt

Sikeston industries have not felt the strain of yesterday's nationwide rail strike but most concede continuance could be costly.

"The rail strike has made things uncomfortable, but we will be able to convert to trucks where we have to," says Russ Harmon, plant general manager of Hart's Bread.

Harmon said that some items, such as flour, cannot be stocked to any great degree and that his suppliers have assured him that they can convert to the trucking industry if needed.

"A short strike won't have any great effect, but if it extends, then we'll have to make the changes," he observed.

Shipping officials at Caproco Inc. said their inbound supplies are shipped by rail and if the strike continues this policy may have to be altered.

Ray Noonan, shipping supervisor, said that company has a "bit of supplies on hand, but I don't know how long we could operate if the strike continues."

Potlach Forest officials said although they do a large amount of inbound shipping by rail, the strike has had no effect.

Dexter City Employes Get Pay Increase

DEXTER — An ordinance was passed last night by the town board giving each city employe an approximate $20 per month raise in salary.

J. R. Angle and James T. Williams were granted licenses for plumbing on payment of $25 each.

The park board was granted an extra $1,000 for additional expenses in order to pay the balance on the construction costs of the tennis court.

The council said the water tower will be painted by Adams-McCord engineering firm.

'Subversives' To Be Shown in Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the House Internal Security Committee says hearings on recent antiwar demonstrations will show subversives among the protest leaders. But the panel's dissident says he doubts it.

Chairman Richard H. Ichord, D-MO., says the probe starting today will "explore particularly the domination of the National Peace Action Coalition by the Socialist Workers Party and the principal role being played by the Communist Party USA in the People's Coalition for Peace and Justice."

But Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., who voted against investigating sponsors of the recent wave of demonstrations here, said "I see no evidence, really, no sufficient evidence that there are subversive elements in this peace movement.

"The people who planned the April 24 thing clearly are not subversive," Drian added.

Joseph Swetay Michigan Victim

SOUTH HAVEN, Mich. (AP) — Joseph Swetay, 64, of Covert township, Mich., was slain May 2 in a combination gorcery store and tavern robbery.

William Cole, 47, and Carlos Fain, 31, both of Benton Harbor, are in the Pemiscot county jail in Caruthersville, Mo., on a Michigan warrant for investigation of murder.

The pair was apprehended Sunday night in Hayti, Mo., by a deputy sheriff and three highway patrolmen.

Gas Hike Vetoed By Gov. Hearnes

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes vetoed the gas tax increase bill Monday and the question still is unanswered whether the Senate will attempt to over-ride it.

It could be done in the Senate where the bill passed first on a 22-5 vote. Only one more affirmative vote would be needed to over-ride the veto.

But in the House, it would be a different matter. The bill passed the House 86-56 and it would take 109 affirmative votes to over-ride there.

The measure would have boosted the motor fuel tax from five cents a gallon to seven cents with no new ties on the revenue.

Hearnes said that wouldn't solve Missouri's highway needs. He said a tax increase must be tied to a highway bond issue so the needed highway construction can be pushed speedily.

Hearnes said in a veto message that such a bond issue is before a Senate committee. It has passed the House but now contains a plan for $600 million in bonds, $400 million for highways, $100 million for each for county roads and state aid to mass transit.

The original plan was for $475 million for highways only.

Granberry is in Missouri Delta Community hospital, Sikeston, with a punctured lung.

Clayborn is free under $1,000 bond pending preliminary hearing June 1 in magistrate court.

Seven Arraigned On Drug Charges

CAPE GIRARDEAU--Seven charged with narcotic offenses appeared before Magistrate Judge N. Robert Liley yesterday for arraignment. Preliminary hearing dates will be set later.

Richard Fakes of Cape Girardeau; John Adams, Sikeston; Ronnie Lee Wyatt of Cape Girardeau; Hugh Marvin Gilmore, Sikeston; Roger Ruebush of Cape Girardeau; Judy Ruebush of Cape Girardeau; and James William McClure of Poplar Bluff appeared.

McClure requested a preliminary hearing on a charge of possession of narcotics. A preliminary date was set for next Tuesday. McClure is charged with two counts of possession of narcotics and sales of narcotics.

Frederick Scott Leuckel of Cape Girardeau appeared for formal arraignment Friday and requested a preliminary hearing on a charge of sales of marijuana. His preliminary hearing date is May 25.

Sewage and Bonds Occupy Council

NEW MADRID — Sewage and bond issues were topics of a city council meeting last night.

Again appearing before the council representing residents in the Angora Heights sub-division, who are requesting sewer extensions, Attorney Harry H. Bock was told the council had contacted a bonding company concerning a bond issue but details have not been worked out.

Bock was told that the possibility of obtaining local bank financing of the bonds would be investigated.

H. H. Townsend Jr., owner of land adjacent to the sub-division, discussed sewer extension to his property.

Construction bills totalling $1,287,061.78 for power plant construction in St. Jude Industrial Park were approved. Also approved were two weeks payroll for construction at the power plant, $199,159.40 for week of May 7 and $185,746.57 for week of May 14.

A resolution was approved authorizing publication of legal notices for the public sale of $60 million in power plant construction bonds. The bonds were approved March 2 by voters to supply additional funds to complete a 60 megawatt generating station in the industrial park.

$200 Fine on Driving Charge

Despite a recommendation for a lighter fine from Assistant Prosecutor John Wilson, Magistrate Judge Lloyd G. Briggs this morning fined Russell Atchison of 221 Luther $200 and sentenced him to 60 days in jail on a charge of driving while intoxicated.

Wilson had recommended a $100 fine and a six-month probation.

Atchison's jail time was stayed and a one year probation was issued.

Judge Briggs granted a request from the attorney representing John Scarbrough of Sikeston, for a change of venue from Briggs to another judge. Briggs assigned Judge Leo Hedgepeth of New Madrid to hear the case on the magistrate court level. Scarbrough is charged with the sale of illegal drugs.

TAXPAYERS OPERATING IN THE BLACK

To the average taxpayer, May 10 is a "red-letter" day, or rather, the day he gets out of the red ink as far as paying taxes are concerned. That is the day Mr. Average Taxpayer starts working for himself, says the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, providing he has worked steadily since January 1 and given every dollar to the government: federal, state and local.

We have all been spending some of our hard-earned cash on food and other essentials since January 1, so we should look at it on a daily basis: the average wage-earner works more than one-third of every eigh-hour day — two hours and 51 minutes, to be exact — before his daily income covers his tax bite.

Unless we stop demanding more services of government, we are in danger of losing half of our income to the Internal Revenue, pricing our products out of the market, and bringing the wheels of industry to a stop. As it is now, the greatest single cause of inflation is higher taxes.

The Census Bureau reports the average income in 1968 of men 25 years or older with a college education was $4,500 more than the average income of men with no more than a high school diploma. The mean income received by American men 25 and older in 1968 was $7,900. For men with more than a high school diploma, the mean income was $8,400. For those with four or more years of college it was $12,000.

We've had several requests for the Congressional bean soup recipe.

For years this soup has been a specialty of the House dining room in the U. S. Capitol; and while the formula may seem simple, the fact that the ham hocks must be smoked makes it distinctive.

Wash two pounds of small pea-size navy beans, and run through hot water until beans are white again.

Add the beans to four quarts of boiling water.

Add 1½ pounds of smoked ham hocks, and simmer for three hours in a covered pot.

Add one onion chopped fine and lightly browned.

Season with salt and pepper just before serving.

Serves eight.

(Soup may also be kept in deep-freeze in small portions ready to heat.)

CAREFULLY STORED GUNS CAN REDUCE ACCIDENTS

Improperly stored guns are a major cause of firearms accidents in the home, according to the National Safety Council.

The safety council reported that half of the accidental firearms fatalities in 1969 occurred in the home, and many occurred because guns were improperly stored.

To help reduce accidents, the National Shooting Sports Foundation urges all gun owners to observe these safety rules:

1. Be certain every gun in the home is unloaded. Be sure that the magazine is completely empty.

2. All guns should be locked up, out of the reach of children.

3. Ammunition should also be secured under lock and key. I should be stored separately from the firearms.

Most important of all, the shooter should teach his family safe gun handling and respect for firearms. Proper training in the care and use of firearms will provide all members of the family with the knowledge needed to eliminate firearms accidents in the home.

A full 24 per cent on meat costs can be saved by buying advertised specials at supermarkets according to distinguished economist - writer Sylvia Porter.

Some examples of advertised prices as compared to the national average by Miss Porter include: Advertised chicken, 29 cents; national average, 41 cents. Advertised bacon, 69 cents; national average 41 cents. Advertised chuck roast, 55 cents; national average, 70 cents.

Miss Porter's advertised prices were obtained from Washington newspapers early this spring. This column made a similar check with in several small cities, comparing advertised prices to non-advertised prices within the same city. The results were roughly the same as reported by Miss Porter; however, the disparity on some items ran to more than 50 per cent.

The large advertisers are not engaged in charity. Their low prices may be attributed to several factors. The anticipated large volume of sales reduce the required margin of profit. The costs of storage, spoilage, and distribution are reduced because of advertising.

Also, advertising is really the latest news about market conditions. When turkey or chicken is selling for 20 cents a pound, the advertising is reporting that the national or international market for such produce is over-supplied at that time.

As Miss Porter points out, there is no new rule for cutting food prices, but the best "old rule" is to shop for advertised specials.

Is there any other deterrent? Geddie asked. "No, the sentences talk."

NEW YORK (AP) — "Each day is a bonus, a free ride to me," said actor Walter Matthau.

"The thing that gives me most pleasure in life today is simply being alive. I had a massive heart attack five years ago that was supposed to kill me but didn't.

"A heart attack is a big insult to your psyche as well as your physiology. I believe mine must have changed my personality—and for the better. Anyway, I've gotten more leading film roles since then."

His latest starring vehicle is a screen version of Neil Simon's "Plaza Suite," following smash performances in "The Fortune Cookie," "The Odd Couple," and "Hello, Dolly."

"If you start from nothing and drive yourself to a false fiduciary success, you are almost bound to have a heart attack," he remarked.

His own came after a period during which he overworked, smoked heavily and indulged a passion for spectacular gambling. Now he still works hard but has given up smoking and cut down on his gambling.

"But, of course," he said, smiling, "you can get a heart attack from the strain of standing in line at a $2 window."

Mellowed now by early adversity and illness at the peak of his career, Matthau said now he would define life as "a silly little journey" and his philosophy is this:

"Whatever it is, it isn't that important. Work is more important than the man who does it."

Asked what defeats most men in life, he replied:

"They fall in with all of the philosophy that is made up by the haves. This is not consistent with the needs and desires of the have nots. Whenever the have nots try to apply the philosophy of the haves to their own lives, they come up empty."

Walter feels his worst fault is a feeling of nameless guilt.

"I feel terribly guilty. But I don't know what I'm guil'y of or why I feel that way.

His best virtue, in his own opinion, is that "I don't take myself too seriously."

Colonel E. I. (Mike) Hockaday, the Superintendent of the Missouri State Highway Patrol, today stated that proper signaling by drivers can reduce traffic accidents and the deaths, injuries and property damage that result from them.

The Superintendent pointed out that the Patrol found over 2,000 'failure to signal or improper signal' violations in accidents investigated by the state law enforcement agency last year.

"It is imperative for the smooth and safe flow of traffic that drivers know what other drivers in the immediate traffic picture intend to do," Hockaday stated. "This communication between drivers can be accomplished by proper signaling. I urge all drivers to signal their intentions to stop, turn and slow down and to make them in plenty of time to allow other motorists to prepare for their movements."

Colonel Hockaday then pointed out that just as the proper use of signals can reduce the chances for accidents, the improper use of signals can just as certainly create hazards. One improper user of signals is that of relaying turn signals of other drivers. When a driver who intends to continue straight ahead comes upon another driver who is signaling for a turn, no signal should be given unless the turning driver will cause the other to slow or stop. If the situation calls for slowing or stopping the second driver should make the appropriate slow or stop signal.

"Communication among drivers through the proper use of signals is a must in this day of heavy and complex traffic," Hockaday concluded. "Each driver must know what the other will do. When communication between drivers breaks down, chaos and tragedy often follow."

Keep Lands Open In U.S. for Mines, James Goyd Says

"Casting aside multiple land use would amount to perpetuating a crime against future society," said James Boyd, president of Copper Range Company, a panelist at a recent National Association of Manufacturer's meeting held in St. Charles, Ill.

Mr. Boyd, former director of the U. S. Bureau of Mines, stated, "The industrial economies of the world would eventually cease to exist if denied access to large territories in which to prospect for untapped mineral resources."

Mr. Boyd believes today's economy is dependent upon the products of mines. He cited the sources of modern energy—from coal, natural gas, and fiquid petroleum. " in time," he added, "this will come more from the mineral uranium and from oil shales."

Although minerals are abundant in the earth's crust, deposits which are sufficiently concentrated to be developed economically are rare, Mr. Boyd pointed out. "Useful deposits are becoming more difficult to find and more costly to exploit. In and around metropolitan areas, this is true even of sand and gravel. It is infinitely more true in the case of silver and nickel, and only slightly less so in the basic raw materials, copper, lead, zinc, iron and aluminum."

Because the kind of ecomomy we live in today cannot do without the products of mines, Mr. Boyd said the mining industry must have access to virtually all areas of the nation to seek out these relatively small spots which yield minerals. "When the geologist locates a natural mineral resource of enormous value to mankind, it is worthwhile to move whole towns to permit its utilization on behalf of all the people," Mr. Boyd noted.

Hurdles to Longer Life

If medical scientists could just eliminate all diseases and if safety experts could prevent all accidents, everyone ought to live to be a hundred of two.

It sounds logical, but it doesn't work out that way, at least, not on paper.

Statisticians with Metropolitan Life have calculated how much life expectancy would be increased if deaths from the major diseases and from accidents were reduced by 50 per cent, which does not seem to be an unreasonable or unattainable goal, if a distant one.

The largest increase would come if deaths from heart and blood vessel diseases were halved. But it would range only from three to five years, depending upon whether you are white or nonwhite, male of female and what age group you are in.

Gains in longevity from cutting cancer deaths in half would range from about one-half to 1¼ years.

The halving of deaths from accidents, including motor vehicle accidents, would increase average life expectancy at birth by more than half a year but would have little effect at ages 65 and over.

For newborns, present average life expectancy remains a shade under the Biblical three-score and 10. If by some miracle deaths from all major causes were cut in half, their lease on life would be extended by a total of about 8¾ years.

Not bas, but still somewhat short of Methuselah.

Anyway, as the Good Book teaches, it is not the length but the quality of life that is important.

2-Party System--Vital Safeguard

The future of our Republic, if we are to avoid anorchy or dictatorship, is best safeguarded under a two-party system. The two-party system is best established and maintained at the grass roots. If each county in the U. S. builds a strong two-party system, that will insure a strong two-party system in each of the 50 states. That is the only way to assure a strong two-party system for our Republic.

A study of the history of governments should convince anyone that only the two-party system affords both stability and Constructive progress. One-party governments, such as in the communist nations and the national socialist states of Hitler, Mussolini, Peron, etc., offer their citizens no opportunity for peaceful change and never permit opposition to the dictatorial individual or clique in power.

Any system which encourages third and fourth parties invites instability. If three, four or more parties, with splintered interests and splintered solutions, contend for election, the result is chaos like France goes through every few years. There is almost never a majority view and seldom a solution to any problem. The resulting instability leads to anarchy unless a strong-man rule is imposed to restore order, as in France under De Gaulle. Or communists get control by a minority vote of 30%, as in Chile.

When our society is under attack from allucinating drugs and the criminals and subversives who profit from this fad, then all of us had better wake ourselves up. The only stable solution is for the good, Constructive citizens to go to work and organize to direct the policies of the major party most likely to preserve and extend Freedom in the tradition of Republic USA, instead of the tradition of Lenin, Marx and Mao. Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON--The Labor Department, with characteristic softness on union bosses, has refused to take criminal action against one of the nation's most respected union for making illegal loans to its officers and staff.

The Landrum-Griffith Act forbids union employees or officers from going into debt to their organization for more than $2,000. The penalty runs as high as a $5,000 fine and a year in jail.

Although officers of other unions have been fined or jailed for the offense, the leaders of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union have been allowed to get away with it.

Instead of prosecuting, the Labor Department entered into a series of secret negotiations with the union leaders which produced an agreement that the illegal loans would be "reduced" to legal levels. No deadline was set for accomplishing this.

Barely had this quiet deal been consummated when the department discovered that the union was violating the same law in another way. So the Labor Department merely sat down with the union bigwigs and made another deal.

The illegal loans have been made in two forms. The first discovered by the department was cut-rate mortgages. Hundreds of thousands in mortgage money was shelled out to the union officers and staff between 1961 and 1968.

--TALK, NOT FIGHT--

There were some in the Labor Department's regional office in New York, which has immediate jurisdiction over the ILGWU, who wanted to make a full-scale investigation. The department brass decided, however, that they would rather talk than fight.

So negotiations were begun in New York and eventually concluded in Washington. It was decided that the union officers would not be prosecuted if no new mortgage loans were made and the outstanding ones were reduced to the legal limit of $2,000 over an unspecified period of time.

Soon thereafter, however, it was discovered that a number of ILGWU officers and staff had been getting cut-rate personal loans up to $2,000 which were also illegal because the same persons already were in debt to the union for mortgage money.

Instead of action, there was more talk and a few months ago the government and the union agreed that these loans would be cut back to legal levels by October of this year.

Benjamin Naumoff, the New York regional administrator who has jurisdiction over the ILGWU, told us that the decision not to act was made because there was no evidence the loans were made for corrupt reasons and there was no injury to the ILGWU.

Asked why the department did not set a deadline for eliminating the mortgages, he said this might have been unfeasible in view of the time it normally takes to pay off a mortgage. The union confirmed Naumoff's explanation.

The whole situation is all the more surprising because the ILGWU has long been considered one of the nation's most progressive unions, a reputation it acquired under the leadership of David Dubinsky, who was its president from 1932 to 1965.

Footnote: Burton Hall, a New York lawyer, who represents dissident groups in the ILGWU, has made a thorough investigation of the illegal loans and traces the government's softness to the union's longstanding friendship with Naumoff. When Naumoff first got his job, Hall tells us, the ILGWU leaders threw a big testimonial dinner for him and gave him a color TV, which he accepted.

A Connally aid says his boss got the luxury cream-colored car after he left the governorship, but refuses to say whether the car was a gift.

Cabinet Change?--White House adviser John Ehrlichman will be named by President Nixon to a cabinet post within two months, say insiders. They expect him to replace Attorney General Mitchell who will soon be taking over Nixon's 1972 campaign. However, they say the President is also considering Ehrlichman for another cabinet post.

Raising Cain--The Pentagon is now reaching deep into the right-wing fringe to come up with 100 per cent-true, unquestioning supporters for its endless auxiliary bureaucracy. Mrs. Mary D. Cain, an aging champion of the far right, has been named by Defense Secretary Mel Laird to a three-year term on the Defense Advisory Committee on Women in the Services. She has long been active in the "Congress of Freedom" and "We, the People!," two groups that have included many extremists. She is also a committee member of the Friends of Rhodesian Independence, a Liberty Lobby front which backs the white supremist policies of the former British colony.

Debtor's Prison--The American Civil Liberties Union of Florida, which has taken on the court cases of brutalized prisoners in grim Raiford, Fla., penitentiary, is in danger of going to debtor's prison itself. The civil liberties group expects a bankrupting $8,000 in total costs for trying to get the prison into "habitable condition."

GEORGE WALLACE: Alabama Governor Woos 'Working Class' As Prelude to '72 Presidential Race

Roanoke, Va.: -- Yes, Virginia, there still is a George Wallace. Very much indeed, though much of the nation appears to have forgotten the nimble, infighting, always-jabbing governor of Alabama. And after a long telephone conversation with him, I have no doubt that Mr. Wallace positively will run for president again, just as he did in 1968 on a latter-day Populist platform which sounds like the disinterring of the Workingmen's Party, now dead almost 150 years.

The bantam 51-year-old governor did not say right out he was running. But he does appear to believe he could get more than 20 million votes -- twice what he rolled up last time. And virtually all from working people, in and out of organized labor.

Dramatically enough, the AFL-CIO's high command was in closed-door conference in Atlanta, Ga., talking considerable politics right about the time Gov. Wallace and I were doing the same.

In 1968 labor's chiefs threw over 30 million leaflets into the fight specifically aimed at Mr. Wallace. They may have to really cut loose this time. For the governor is making inroads into labor just as he did in '68 -- but seemingly more so. And earlier. Much earlier.

Just whom the governor's candidacy wil hurt most -- Richard Nixon or the Democratic-labor alliance nominee, who appears to be shaping up as Hubert Humphrey for the moment -- no one would venture. And during my travels these past few days I polled some of the South's most astute political leaders.

One thing is certain, Mr. Wallace appears to be the balance of power, what with Mr. Nixon having rolled up 31,785,480 to Sen. Humphrey's 31,275,165 back in '68.

I did talk to Jim Buckley about the governor the evening after Wallace's big inside clambake in Dallas. New York's junior senator did not believe Gov. Wallace was a fellow Conservative. "A Populist, yes." A conservative, no, said the only senator ever elected on an official Conservative Party ticket.

Whatever he is, Gov. Wallace is picking up labor support. Recently "Red" Smith's International Ass. of Machinists (AFL-CIO) polled its members in Illinois and Texas. In the two states George Wallace received an average of 22 per cent of the unionists' votes -- 21 per cent in Illinois and 24 per cent in Texas. He topped President Nixon each time.

Nor did he lose any votes back in March when he bucked President Nixon's suspension of the Davis-Bacon Act's prevailing wage standards. The governor was right there nose to nose on the track with Gov. Rockefeller of New York and Gov. Shapp of Pennsylvania in announcing that, in effect, there would be no suspension of Davis-Bacon in Alabama and that if any attempt was made to cut down prevailing wages he wanted to know about it quickly.

He made swift contact, through aides and directly, with national, state and local building and construction trades union chiefs. Some telegrams came in congratulating him. One came from a carpenters group and another from the Chattahoochee Valley Building and Construction Trades Council. There were offers of "assistance" in "any great or small matter."

Of course, this served labor's interests, pocketbook and agreements. But still, they did put themselves on record, despite national labor leaders charges that George Wallace is a menace.

The controversial governor has also been invited to keynote the Mobile (Ala.) Joint Labor Day Committee celebration in Prichard Stadium. There may be no connection between the invite and the assault on President Nixon, but the shrewd governor won't lose any brownie points when he gets up before teeming labor thousands next Labor Day.

There's much of Huey Long in the governor's public and private oratory. There is talk of suing, sort of a class-action maneuver, the major funds such as the Ford Foundation and the Rockefeller Fund, in the federal courts.

Those around the governor say that thus he could hammer together a platform which would promise that if the huge milti-billion dollar funds were forced to pay taxes, the "working people" could have their own and dependents tax exemptions doubled from the current $600 to $1200 a person.

And there is talk of improving unemployment insurance regulations, workmen's compensation, building hospitals, mental institutions, dental and medical schools and nurses' training centers. If the governor of Alabama had the hoarse, coasting voice of the governor of New York, it all would sound mighty like "Rocky" at one of his private labor soirees.

There's bound to be swift counteraction by labor's agile political strategists. In 1968, they moved after reports in this column of George Wallace's inroads into their own ranks -- and into the heart of the United auto Workers, then led by the late Walter Reuther.They rolled out the manpower and hardware, the litany and literature. But Mr. Wallace says his 9,906,473 votes defeated Vice President Humphrey.

The labor chiefs want no repeat. They want an ally in the White House -- not a neutral. They take Hubert Humphrey at his word when again and again they hear him say at some session, "If I had won, this meeting would have been in the White House."

They're not yet wed to Sen. Humphrey. They want Sen. Henry Jackson on the ticket. But most of all they want in -- and the 5-foot-7 George Wallace looms big in the driveway " as a spoiler," they say.

The derby is on.

Sikeston Child Development Center to Continue in Summer

Judge Marshall Craig, chairman of the committee for Sikeston's Child Development Center, announces the center will operate continuously through the summer as a service for low income parents, who are employed or in vocational training.

In the Lincoln School Facility, the center began in February, 1968, as a community agency drawing funds and in kind services from many sources, and has remained open since.

Some of the sources of support are the Manpower Training Program, Scott County Welfare, Scott County Health Authority, Delta Headstart, the Mainstream Training Program, the Commodities Food Program, the Ferguson Clinic, Hunter Memorial First Presbyterian Church, First United Methodist Church, labor unions, civic and fraternal groups, many businesses,individuals and Neighborhood Youth Corps.

About 90 hours each week are given by women volunteers. "Much of the success of the Center is due to the coordinated use of all Sikeston's resources, from existing agencies and clubs as well as from individuals in all parts of town," commented Mrs. Keith Collins, committee member and chairman of volunteer staff.

Mrs. Decima Munger, co-ordinator of the Center's 40 children, announces that beginning June 1 there will be 10 to 12 vacancies. Parents may fill out applications to enroll pre-school children for summer day care by coming to the center and registering with the secretary Monday through Friday.

Preference will be given first to those children whose parents need quality day care service in order to stay on a job or in vocational training, second to those children nearest age for entering kindergarten, and third to foster children and others who need development in group experiences.

Office Grandma Rankled Because Unmarried Pregnant Girl Gets Attention

Dear Readers: Thank you for your magnificent response to my suggestion that you wire or write your Senators in support of S-34, the Cancer Conquest Bill. An unprecedented blizzard of letters has hit Washington. The already overworked secretaries who must answer the mail have posted signs saying, "Impeach Ann Landers!" They quietly concede, however, that the response is heart-warming. Judging from the telegrams and letters already received it is estimated that that single column will generate a million pieces of mail.

"I am immensely grateful that President Nixon has announced his support of some of the principles of S-34. The battle will not be won, however, until legislation passes both houses of Congress establishing a National Cancer Authority and making the conquest of the disease a National Cancer Authority and making the conquest of the disease a specific national goal. It will not be enough merely to utilize the existing machinery for cancer research."

The existing machinery has been around since 1937 and it is a jungle of red tape. The proposed National Cancer Authority would be an agency similar to the National Aeronautics and Space Administration which put the first man on the moon. If we had stayed with "the existing machinery" it is doubtful that we would have reached our national goal.

Your wires and letters in support of S-34 are letting Washington know we want a sharp realignment of priorities. We are no longer going to remain silent while medical research picks up the crumbs from the table after the military has finished its gourmet meals. The answers to the scourge of cancer can and will be found. I say a massive, unified assault on this killer disease is long overdue.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a youngish grandmother, just as you are, Ann. In fact, we are the same age. I work in a large office of a well known firm and I get along beautifully with the younger gals although I do not approve of the life style of some. Suddenly, I find myself unable to adjust to a certain situation in this office and it is upsetting me terribly.

Miss X is 27 years old and very pregnant. Her lover skipped town and left no forwarding address. The gal has announced she is keeping her baby and will work as long as she can because she needs the money. In the meantime she is big as a house and I would not be surprised if she gave birth at the water cooler.

I find her presence an embarrassment. I feel that in a subtle way she is telling all decent people to go to hell. What rankles me most is that the men in this office (both married and single) treat her with special respect and consideration. One unusually hardboiled type said, "I admire the girl's guts."

In short, this pregnant-out-of-wedlock dame winds up with more attention, consideration and admiration than most women get from their husbands. What do you think of it, Ann Landers?—Wash., D.C.

Dear Wash: I think it's beautiful – especially the guys. One day when I'm in your city I'd like to come by your office and meet them.

I do not agree that the girl is telling all decent people to "go to hell." I believe she is dealing with an unusually difficult crisis in the way she feels is best – for her. You need to retool your thinking, Dearie.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35 cents in coin and a long self-addressed, stamped envelope.

West End Baptist Church Serves Free Dinners On Women's Day

Sunday was Women's Day at West End Baptist church. Free home-cooked meals were served in the church dining room after the worship services. A program honoring the women of the church followed lunch.

The day of festivities resulted from four months of cooking and serving meals at the church on Saturdays and Sundays. Since January, the meal sales have earned $1,162.

West End Church has prepared and sold dinners in its dining room four years, and Women's Day came in recognition of the workers' efforts as well as the response of the community to the fund-raising cause.

Sunday's menu included baked ham, fried chicken, potato salad, candied sweet potatoes, turnip greens, lima beans, green beans, gelatin salad, macaroni and cheese, lemon, apple, cheese and sweet potato pies, banana, chocolate, lemon and pound cake.

Women serving on the kitchen committee were Mrs. Velma Richardson, chairman of Women's Day, who has been employed by Dr. D. E. Urban more than 10 years; Mrs. Annie Hunt, who has been with the E.P. Coleman family 30 years; Eddie Stevens, an employe of Mrs. C. D. Matthews III 27 years; and Bobbie Bryant.

Miller Stops GHS

Major league baseball scouts took up about a fourth of the seats at VFW stadium Monday afternoon as the Sikeston Bulldogs and Gideon Canines battled for the sectional baseball title and a ticket to the regional at Cape Girardeau Friday afternoon. Sikeston won 1-0.

The major interest of the nearly 16 scouts was the pitching matchup of hard throwing Mark Little of Gideon against the smoth pitching talents of Sikeston's Don Miller.

The game proved to be just what it was labled "a pitching duel".

Miller won out over his opponent, to run his scoreless inning streak to 27 and his overall season mark to a sparkling 10-0 while moving the team to within three games of the state title.

A repeat of the district battle in which Miller hooked up against Cape Girardeau Central's lefthanded fireballer Mark Hogan for 10 innings before both left the game in favor of a prep rule and Sikeston finally won in the 12th, was forecast.

But a pair of seventh inning errors put an end to any thoughts of extra innings. Don Miller reached first on an error after he skied a ball up about 15 foot in front of home plate and three GHS players missed the cloud scraper. Miller stole second and raced home when an outfielder fumbled a single by John Vines.

The victory lifted the Bulldogs' record to 12-2 for the season, the only losses came at the hands of Cape Central and Chaffee early in the season.

SHS plays the winner of today's Festus sectional at Cape Girardeau Friday for the right to move to Springfield and the semifinals. Fox and Lafayette are scheduled to battle at 4 p.m. today in the sectional.

Lafayette, the defending champion, is favored. Sikeston dropped a 4-1 decision to it in egional play last season at Ste. Genevieve.

"Defense has been our strong point in the tournament," Coach N. P. McDaniel happily pointed out. "We were a little shaky early in the season, but we haven't allowed many runs since Cape gave up that skinning (9-0).

The Bulldogs face Cape Central in a regular season game Wednesday at Capaha Park and will put either Eddie McDowell or Bob Mitchell on the mound.

Miller will get the call to carry the Dogs into the state semi finals. The 6-foot-1 inch righthander fanned 14 Gideon batters in seven innings Monday while allowing three hits and walk. He also led the team in hitting with two for three, including a double in the first inning.

Series Final

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP) — The Utah Stars and Kentucky Colonels, bruised and exhausted after six rowdy plaoff games, will settle the American Basketball Association championship tonight in the seventh and final game.

The game, sold out at 13,208 only two hours after Kentucky tied the series at 3-3 Saturday in Louisville, Ky., will be televised locally and back to Kentucky.

Both teams were runners-up in their divisions, Kentucky losing out to Virginia in the East and Utah placing second to defending ABA champion Indiana in the West.

The Stars took the first two games against Kentucky in the Salt Palace, lost the next two at Louisville, won at the Salt Palace and then lost at Louisville.

The games at Louisville were decided in the closing seconds; the ones at Salt Lake, where Kentucky has yet to win in six games—including regular season, were not close.

The winning team in tonight's game will split $48,130 and the losing team, $40,130.

The coaches, Frank Ramsey of Kentucky and Bill Sharman of Utah, played together for the Boston Celtics and they use the same plays. Both teams live by the fast break. And Ramsey and Sharman have the same aims going into the final game.

"We can't stand around," says Sharman. "We play better when we run."

"We've got to avoid turnovers and not slow down in the last quarter," Ramsey says. "That has happened to us in Utah."

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Harvard hockey and tennis standout Joe Cavanagh won the William J. Bingham Award and the Jack Fadden Award Monday night at the Senior Lettermen's Dinner.

The Bingham Award went to the Cranston, R.I., senior for "integrity, courage, leadership and ability" in athletics. The Fadden Award was given for overcoming physical adversity, a shoulder injury in his sophomore year.

UMPIRE LOU WEISS OF JACKSON congratulates Gideon's Mark Littell after a 1-0 loss to Sikeston in the state high school sectional baseball game at VFW stadium Monday. Littell is a highly sought after pitcher. He gave up four hits yesterday while striking out 11.

BETHARD FREE

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Backup quarterback Pete Beathard of the St. Louis Cardinals technically is a free agent, a club spokesman said Tuesday.

"We are still in negotiation with him and are hopeful that we will work out a salary agreement, Cardonal publicist Joe Pollack said.

Obtained a year ago from the Houston Oilers, Beathard balked at signing a contract, thus playing out the option on the pact he had the year before. The terminal date for such contracts is May 1.

Tulsa Rips Cardinals

TULSA, Okla. (AP)— Fred Rico clouted two home runs and led Tulsa to a 9-2 victory over the parents St. Louis Cardinals at Oiler Park Monday night in an exhibition baseball game.

A crowd of 5,181 saw the Oilers prevail for the second straight year and deadlock their series with the Cardinals at three victories each.

Randy Brown, making his first appearance as an Oiler, hit a two-run homer in the fourth off losing right-hander Mike Torrez.

Right-hander Carroll Sembera, second of five Tulsa pitchers, earned the victory.

Rico also figured in three other scoring innings for the Oilers with a pair of hits and his second homer of the game in the eighth inning.

The Cardinals, who lost 6-0 a year ago, averted a second straight shutout by scoring two runs in the seventh on three straight doubles by Dal Maxvill, Ted Sizemore and Jerry McNertney in the seventh inning.

Lilbourn Tri-County Champions

WARDELL — Lilbourn, winner of the northern division of the Tri-County Baseball League, wrapped up the league title in a playoff with the southern division winner Monday afternoon, beating North Pemiscot 4-3.

The Panthers pushed across the winning run in the seventh when Bruce Atchley doubled in Gary Mainord with two outs.

North Pemiscot broke a scoreless duel in the second inning by pushing across a pair of runs and stayed ahead until the fifth inning. Then the LHS diamond crew jumped ahead 3-2, with a two-run rally before the host tied the score in the last of the fifth and the game remained 3-3 until the seventh inning Lilbourn rally.

Mainord picked up the victory as Lilbourn ended its spring baseball campaign with 11-4 season record and ended North Pemiscots with a 12-2 mark.

Both teams finished 5-0 in league games.

BATTING— Ralph Garr, Braves, tied the game with a home run in the last of the 10th inning and won it with another shot into Atlanta Stadium's leftfield seats in the 12th as Atlanta trimmed the New York Mets 4-3.

PITCHING— Don Wilson, Astros, pitched a four hitter as Houston beat the San Diego Padres 2-0.

Garr Shows Power

The Roadrunner was standing on the corner, watching the baseball go bye, bye.

"Yep, I just watched the ball from the batter's box after I hit it," said Atlanta's Ralph Garr, who carries the "Roadrunner" tag for his blinding speed. "I knew it was out of the park— but I was afraid it might go foul."

The reason for the freeze, Garr said, was that he wanted to conserve his energy—in case the ball was foul "and I would need all my strength to run on the next ball."

Turns out, his fears were foundless. The ball clattered into the left-field seats in fair territory and gave the Braves a 4-3 victory over the New York Mets in the 11th inning Monday night.

"I'll never forget that," said Atlanta's prize new left-fielder who also had game-tying homer in the 10th and beefed his batting average to a National League-leading .44 with a 3-for6 night.

Pittsburgh beat Montreal 6-5, Philadelphia turned back Cincinnati 3-2 and Houston beat San Diego 2-0 in the only other National League action.

In the American League, it was New York 6, Baltimore 3; Cleveland 6, Washington 3; Boston 3; Detroit 2, and Minnesota 3, California 2.

New York had AL Weis on third base with the potential lead run in the 11th inning when Atlanta's Bob Priddy threw one of his pitches over the catcher's head. But the ball ricocheted off a back wall and shot back before Weis had a chance to come home.

Garr not only made the timely hits, but timely catches as well. He made two robberies of drives in the outfield, including Bud Harrelson's long belt up the alley in left-center, which the "Roadrunner" simply outran.

Orlando Cepeda was another Brave hero, stroking a homer off Seaver to lead off the ninth that tied the game 2-2. New York's Don Clendenon then ripped his second homer of the game to give the Mets a 3-2 bulge before Garr came through.

Roberto Clemente, who unloaded a homer in the eighth, cracked a two-run triple in the ninth to give Pittsburgh a come-back victory over Montreal.

The Pirates trailed 5-4 when Gene Alley opened the last of the ninth with a single off Expos' reliever Mike Marshall. Gene Clines sacrificed Alley to second and he held there as Dave Cash beat out an infield hit.

Vic Davalillo flied out, but then Clemente hit the center field wall with his drive to score the tying and winning runs.

Clemente had left five runners stranded prior to his batting splurge, coaxing boos from the 6,431 faithful at Three Rivers Stadium.

Mike Ryan's tie-breaking homer in the eighth helped Philadelphia's Jim Bunning break a six-game losing streak.

Bunning checked the Reds on five hits for eight innings and drove in the Phillies' first two runs with a sacrifice fly and homer. Darrell Brandon pitched the ninth for Philadelphia, surviving a two-out triple by Bernie Carbo.

Don Wilson fired a four-hitter and Jack Hiatt and Jim Wynn delivered run-scoring singles in the Houston cause. The only run Wilson needed to gain his fourth victory in six decisions was an unearned tally in the second inning.

With two out, Doug Rader singled and Jesus Alou was safe on an error. Hiatt then sliced a single to score Rader. Wynn's infield single brought hom Joe Morgan from third with Houston's other run in the eighth.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Canonero II, surprise winner of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, was scheduled to take a "victory" walk in front of the Pimlico stands today as a tug of war appeared to be developing for his services.

Meanwhile Canonero, who was to depart for New York Thursday for the June 5 Belmont Stakes, appeared to be facing steadily dwindling opposition for the third leg of the Triple Crown.

Pedro Baptista, who races the colt in the name of his sonin-law, Edgar Caibett, said he would be in Miami Thursday to discuss a $4 million bid from a Florida syndicate for the $1,200 yearling.

And the Venezuelan government, which controls racing in the colt's home country, reportedly was interested in buying the horse to spur interest in breeding in the South American nation.

"The government officials have said they would like to keep him at home," a spokesman said Monday, "to spur interest in breeding created by Canonero in the Derby and Preakness.

"But I doubt if the government can match the offer of the people in Miami," he continued. "If the government offers anything less, Mr. Baptista would be a poor businessman to accept it."

Baptista, a Caracas businessman, said he would have to retain four shares in any syndication, keep any earnings from the Belmont Stakes, with the horse running under the original ownership in the Belmont.

Canonero II, with a chance to become the first Triple Crown winner since Citation in 1948, has scared off quite a bit of opposition for the final leg.

Jim French, runner-up in the Derby and third in the Preakness, appears to be the only certain repeater from the previously beaten fields.

Eastern Fleet, runner-up by 1½ lengths in the Preakness as Canonero II set a Pimlico track record of 1:54 for 1 3-16 miles, is still a question mark.

Other possibilities for the Belmont include Good Behaving, who would be an entry with Jim French for trainer Johnny Campo; Bold Reasoning, unbeaten winner of the recent Withers Stakes; Run The Gantlet and On Your Toes.

NCAA-AAU Talks

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A pollible thaw in the long standing feud between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union was hinted Tuesday by the president of the NCAA.

Dr. Earl Ramer indicated in a carefully prepared statement after meeting with AAU President Jack Kelly of Philadelphia, that relations might improve between the two organizations.

"While no commitments involving either organization were made, it is my feeling that through improved understanding of our mutual concerns, a greater cooperation may develop." — Ramer said.

The AAU has been the traditional governing body but the NCAA has prohibited college athletes from participating in AAU meets under threat of stripping them of their scholarship.

A Weekly Information Service for Consumers

By MARGARET DANA

All those who are honestly concerned about our national air pollution problem should make this coming week a time to study a related problem -- our national transportation systems. They hang together and affect every life, no matter where we live.

This is National Transportation Week, and I have been spending some time in Washington, D.C., talking to those whose responsibilities in our Department of Transportation include finding sound solutions to complex transportation problems. We are a people who move constantly -- from our homes to schools, offices, stores, meetings, and all that, as well as bigger moves from city to city and state to state. We need a good many different kinds of transportation, and the job now is to find out which ones, for which purposes, serve us best -- and provide least air pollution in the process.

As you know by now, the major part of the country's railroad passenger service has been transferred to a corporation, called AMTRAK, set up by Congress. I collected some important facts about mass transportation via railroad as I talked with those concerned with making it work. The truth is that we must balance better our kinds of travel if we are to save our air, and at the same time keep efficient and safe transportation.

During the past 20 years two travel methods have, of course, grown enormously -- automobiles and airplanes. More than 173 million used air transportation last year, and the number of motor vehicles increased tenfold over 20 years ago, giving us 100 million today which drive a trillion miles annually. You have been told a good many times in the past year or two how much these two methods of transportation have added to air pollution. At the same time other methods which produce little or no air pollution, like the railroads, have dwindled to a shadow.

This does not mean that crusaders should suddenly rise and demand an end to airplanes and automobiles. It does mean consumers have an obligation to look at the situation and recognize that selective travel methods could balance the problem and bring about great air- quality improvement. President Nixon on March 31 made a statement regarding some proposals for transportation improvement and said, "A balanced transportation system provides adequate transportation not just for SOME of the people in a community but for ALL the people. It recognizes an individual can have DIFFERENT transportation needs at different times."

What we are belatedly recognizing is that we have almost lost one of the vitally important choices in this balanced picture of different needs and methods -- railroad passenger service. The assignment Congress has given AMTRAK is to bring back railroad passenger service between cities to serve the country as a national right.

If you wonder why this is so important to reduction of air pollution, study these facts: It takes FOUR TIMES as much power -- or "thrust" -- to move an automobile on rubber tires on a concrete road as it does to move a railway car on its tracks. A railroad train needs only about 16 horsepower per passenger, with insignificant air pollution, while a motor vehicle must have 10 TIMES tha horsepower per passenger -- and it contributes heavily to air pollution. A single railroad track can handle 40,000 passengers an hour, while one highway lane can handle only around 1,200 cars an hour, which carry 2,000 passengers on the average. See the difference?

As I talked with Katherine May, who was long an effective and popular Congresswoman from the State of Washington and is now vice - chairman of the AMTRAK Board, we thought of many things besides reduced air pollution that the renewal of good passenger service by rail could do for consumers. For instance, it provides a chance for whole families to go on land cruises and see America close up at first hand; a chance to travel quietly and safely no matter what the weather; a chance to slow down the whole great pressure of today's hurry-hurry life while getting where we want to go.

AMTRAK began operation on May 1. Don't expect any miraculous changes to start. But, while many trains and lines will be shut down while the new plan gets underway, if we give it patience, confidence and support, it won't be long before more and more new trains will be servicing all parts of the country.

THE 1971 ISSUE of the Missouri Sesquicentennial Medallion. The obverse side shows the current and first state capitols, with the words, "150 Years of Statehood". The reverse side shows an outline of the state, with symbols depicting Missouri's contribution to the nation's growth, such as, a covered wagon, a Mississippi River steamboat, Lindy's famous "Spirit of St. Louis", and a space age capsule. The medallion was designed by H. Richard Duhme, Associate Professor of Sculpture at Washington University, St. Louis, and is now available at banks and savings and loan associations throughout the state of Missouri.

Missouri Medallions Ready

The 1971 issue of the Missouri Sesquicentennial commemorative medallions is now available at participating banks and savings and loan associations throughout Missouri.

The design, created and sculpted by H. Richard Duhme Jr., assoc. professor of sculpture, Washington University, St. Louis, features Missouri's current and first state capitols joined together with the words, "150 Years of Statehood".

The reverse side depicts modes of transportation involved in Missouri's growth...covered wagon, Mississippi River steam boat, Lindy's famous "Spirit of St. Louis", and a space capsule. The modes of transportation surround an outline of the state.

The .999 fine silver medallions are $10 each and are limited in issue to 15,000. The bronze medallions, unlimited in issue, are selling for $1 each. It is expected that the Missouri Sesquicentennial medallions, like so many other commemorative issues, will become collectors' items.

Missouri's financial institutions are cooperating with the Missouri Sesquicentennial Commission in offering the medallions to the public on a not-for-profit basis. Funds from the sale of the medallions are being used to underwrite the cost of Missouri's Sesquicentennial activities.

Two Couples Killed after Funeral Rites

SENATH— Two Flint, Mich. couples, who were in Senath Friday to attend the funeral of their uncle, were killed enroute home in an automobile crash which critically injured another.

Local friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. James Harold Masterson and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Masterson, were notified by Illinois authorities of the deaths of the two brothers and their wives. A sister of the Mastersons, Shirley, 16, was reported critically injured.

Early reports indicated the two couples stopped in Illinois to spend Friday night with their grandmother, then enroute home to Flint Saturday were killed in the crash.

The Masterson brothers' parents were formerly Senath area residents.

Mother Gets Life Term for Slaying Son

NEW YORK (AP) -- Alice Crimmins, still declaring her innocence, was sentenced to life in prison Thursday for the murder of her 5-year-old son. Judge George Balbach, also sentenced Mrs. Crimmons, 32, to a concurrent term of 5 to 20 years for first -degree murder in the death of her son, Edmund, and first - degree manslaughter in the death of her daughter, Alice Marie.

The life sentence was mandatory for first - degree murder.

The blonde, blue-eyed brother and sister were reported missing from their cribs the morning of July 14, 1965.

After a police investigation of more than two years, Mrs. Crimmins was arrested and charged with strangling the girl. Tried in 1968 for first - degree murder, she was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to a maximum of 20 years in prison. The verdict was upset on appeal because three jurors had made an unauthorized visit to the area of the Crimmins apartment.

During the second trial, the state contended Mrs. Crimmins killed the girl in a fit of anger, then called upon and as yet unidentified man for help. He was said to have killed the boy to seal his lips and to make it appear that an outsider had commited the slayings.

The defense stuck with the claim that the children had disappeared from their cribs.

House Advances Lower Voting Age Resolution

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) -- The Missouri House Thursday advanced a resolution to ratify a U.S. constitutional change lowering the voting age to 18.

It now is ready for final House consideration.

A similar resolution is still pending in Senate committee.

The House rejected, 57-83, a proposal that a constitutional convention be called to draft a state charter, replacing the one that has existed since 1945.

The vote came after sharp questions were asked about the probable costs and whether many of the 83 delegates that would draft the constitution would actually be representing special interests.

Rep. James F. Conway, D-St. Louis, sponsored the proposal and said it has the support of Gov. Warren E. Hearnes and of many leading organizations.

In answer to a question Conway said it would cost about $2.5 million to have a constitutional convention.

The House also advanced a proposed change in the Missouri Constitution to give a 25-year tax abatement authority on forestry land or residential real property that is rehabilitated or redeveloped.

A PLAN FOR INCREASED BENEFITS FOR OUT OF WORK VIETNAM VETERANS

Three monghs ago in this column I wrote about the plight of Vietnam veterans who are unable, in this time of inflation and high unemployment, to find jobs upon leaving the service.

I wish I could say that the situation is better now, but it is not. The current unemployment rate among returning servicemen is 12% -- twice the national rate. Right now about 352,000 veterans are without jobs -- and more than 900,000 servicemen will be separated from the Armed Forces during the coming year.

Until the economy is straightened out the job picture will remain bleak. Last Year Congress attempted to help by passing a bill to provide expanded job counselling, training and placement for veterans. It was vetoed by the President as "too inflationary."

Recently I took a necessary, although stop -gap, step by introducing a bill to increase unemployment benefits for veterans. My bill would guarantee them a minimum weekly benefit of $75 for up to 52 weeks.

NO BRASS BANDS

Not only are there no brass bands to meet our Vietnam veteans, there are no jobs, either. The least we can do is to provide enough unemployment compensation to help them live a little better while they are searching for work.

The trouble with unemployment compensation currently is, first, that there is a great variation in the benefits to which the veteran is entitled, depending on his state, although they are uniformly inadequate and, second, that the period of entitlement is too short, usually only 26 weeks.

In Missouri the maximum weekly benefit is $57 a week for 26 weeks. Nationally about 20 per cent of veterans are still looking for work after drawing their last unemployment check. At this point the returning veteran's alternative is to go on welfare.

My bill is patterned on special legislation enacted by Congress after World War II and the Korean War. The "52-20 Club" after World War II provided relief of $20 a week for 52 weeks for unemployed veterans. My bill would set up a "52-75 Club." We owe our veterans no less.

Jobs Greatest Need of Low Income People

NEW MADRID -- Employment for low income persons remains the greatest need, Lafayette McKinnie, Multi-Agency Coordinating Center, pointed out in an Operation Shirtsleeves meeting.

McKinnie said progress has been made in housing, sewerage, vocational training, road improvements, community betterment and jobs since the organization of agency representatives and concerned citizens started in October of 1969.

Educational opportunities for adults and increased facilities for job training, McKinnie noted, should make it possible for more people to qualify for diversified types of work.

Delta Area Economic Opportunity Corporation personnel, Dixie Washburn, Janene Wyatt, Laura Johnson, Oneita Lancaster and Bea Smith told of activities for senior citizens. Senior citizen programs could be extended to include more communities if facilities were made available.

Howardville Mayor Travis Howard offered the use of the town hall as a meeting place for senior citizens.

Mrs. Betty Renfrow, DAEOC youth coordinator and H. B. Mitchell, New Madrid County R-1 enlarged school district director of Title I programs have been invited to attend the June 14 Shirtsleeves meeting to give more information about youth recreational programs.

Options for Big Lake Obtained

CHARLESTON--The Big Lake project committee of the Mississippi County Recreation Association reported this week that all necessary options for purchase of the 143 acres of lake area property have been secured.

James Ponder, president of the Association, said his group appreciates the help of everyone who cooperated with the committee in providing the options, or in other ways helped with the project.

The options on the 143-acre lake have now been sent to the office of Missouri Attorney General John Danforth for a final legal check once the Attorney General's approval is given, the lake property will be purchased by the Association, using over $15,000 in funds raised in a public drive last December.

The Association will then deed the site to the Missouri Conservation Commission. The Commission plans to develop a permanent fishing lake by re-routing the Big Lake Drainage Ditch and constructing a dam and levee to impound water in the lake basin.

Charles Brink, secretary of the association, said it is possible that construction of the lake can begin late this summer, but if not, by next spring at latest.

Ponder also announced plans for development of other fishing areas in Mississippi County.

He praised the work of R. Q. Brown and the Association's membership committee for securing 770 dues-paying members for 1971. "Dues from these members will enable the Association to work on several projects this year," he said.

Among the projects, Ponder said, are:

Tom Bird Blue Hole— The Conservation Commission is scheduled to build a good road and approach as soon as levee work in the area is completed, probably next summer;

Wolf Island Chute— The Recreation Association will be working on access to this area as soon as logging operations are completed;

Newcum Chute— The Rolwing Brothers have donated a tractor and labor to make a new approach to the chute area, and the Bone brothers have hauled in gravel for the roads.

The president asked all members to make suggestions on projects they would like to see undertaken by the Association. He said members with projects to suggest should contact Bill Chron, Hunt Wellborn or Charles Brink.

Time Off Allowed For Active Duty

ST. LOUIS--Employers in Missouri were reminded today that Reservists and National Guardsmen are entitled to time off from their jobs to perform active duty for training.

The reminder came from Cecil L. Utterback, Regional Administrator of the Labor-Management Services Administration, U.S. Department of Labor, in Kansas City.

Upon their return from training, Reservists and National Guardsmen have a legal right to be restored to their positions with the same seniority, status, pay and vacation rights as they previously held.

The law also prohibits any kind of employment discrimination against a Reservist or Guardsman because of his participation in the program.

Utterback pointed out that military training duty for Guardsmen and Reservists normally occurs during the summer months, and it can be expected that most of them will be absent from employment for two or three weeks of training during this period.

Reservists and Guardsmen were cautioned by Utterback to notify their employers before leaving for training and to report back to their jobs immediately upon completion of their tours, or they may forfeit their statutory re-employment protection.

Additional information and literature about the employment rights of Reservists and National Guardsmen can be obtained by contacting the Labor-Management Services Administration offices at 911 Walnut St., Kansas City, Mo. 64106 or 210 North 12th Boulevard, St. Louis, Missouri 63101.

?Consumer's Question Box?

By Margaret Dana

Q. Many of my friends use the new "Brown-in-Bag" foods which they like very much. I am tempted to use them, too, but wonder if they might contain some harmful chemical that would affect the foods in the bags. Would you comment, please?

A. One of the duties of the Food and Drug Administration is to make sure that packaging of foods is harmless to the consumer. All types of food packaging -- from milk cartons to plastic wraps -- are tested to be sure of their safety before they are marketed. The wrapping you speak of would have to be cleared also before being used in this way.

Q. I have a problem I would like your help with. I have a new bed blanket whose label says it is made of 95 per cent rayon. I heard in the news that anything over 35 per cent will burn easily. So what should I do with this blanket? Is it safe to use?

A. Rayon is one of the highly flammable fibers, especially when it is used in a nap or furry surface. The National Bureau of Standards is working on standards for products which may present an unreasonble risk and which the consumer public may not understand as risks. Blankets are being investigated now, and a rayon blanket, containing 95 per cent rayon would probably not even pass old standards for flame-resistance. If nobody in your house smokes, and no heaters or flames are ever in your room, it may be safe.

Q. I recently bought an electric insect trap that uses crystals to create a vapor that kills bugs. Now that I have it home I see the label says: "For Commercial and Business Use -- Nor For the Home." But I bought it in a housewares department. Will you comment on its safety for use in the home?

A. The maker of the insect trap has already commented on this, and to the point. This type of bug-killer is not safe for use in the home or where people are in the room that is to be vaporized.

The Pesticide Regulation Division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture requires that all electronic bug-killers using lindane-chemical crystals of the continually operating type must be labeled "Not for Home Use," and must be used in industrial situations only according to strict rules.

There is a one-shot type of vaporizer that has been accepted for home use provided the room is unoccupied at the time of treatment. Even this has become the object of critical question as to safety.

Q. We recently read with alarm that irradiated canned bacon was rejected by the armed forces as unfit for human consumption. We would like to avoid this kind of processed food. How can we do this?

A. At present a large-scale investigation is going on in regard to the whole theory of food irradiation as a preservative. Until this is completed and dependable facts are available, irradiated food will not be marketed, although the irradiated bacon had been accepted by the armed forces several years ago and used during this time. No research has yet been published that calls the bacon "unfit for human consumption."

Q. I saw recently on TV a commercial of some sort which seemed to be a warning against lead in paint, but which I suppose was really a paint promotion. It pictured children acutally eating bits of paint off a wall which had begun to peel. This is, of course, ridiculous, as no child, no matter how hungry, is going to eat scratchy rough pieces of paint. And no grownup with any sense is going to sit there and watch a child do it without stopping it. I wonder if this wasn't a phony commercial to scare people away from one brand of paint to another?

A. It was an authentic serious warning that thousands of children are made ill or die from eating paint particles containing lead. Usually this happens in old buildings. Today's paints are generally lead-free. But old paint needs urgently to be removed and new paint put on, because it happens to be true, unlikely as it sounds, that many small children do pick at painted walls and eat what they scratch off -- with tragic results.

Q. I was shopping at a local discount grocery last weekend and checking eggs before buying by opening the carton as usual. In one I saw three feathers protruding from one egg -- actually a chick was hatching. I was almost sick at the sight. How could such an egg be put in a carton? Aren't eggs checked by candling first? What went wrong?

A. In the first place, it is simple common sense to buy only government - graded eggs that carry the U. S. Department of Agriculture's grade mark. This mark gives assurance that the eggs were of a specific quality at the time of testing, and if they have been properly handled since then there will be little loss of quality. They should always, of course, be kept in refrigerated cases.

Carton of government - graded eggs are marked by a shield -shaped symbol printed on the carton or the paper tape used to seal it. Unless you are entirely familiar with the discount store's practices in buying and storing eggs, be careful about buying bargain eggs.

Newlyweds Should Think about Taxes

ST. LOUIS--Should a June bride take her accountant along on her honeymoon? Not necessarily, but it might be a good idea to check with him when she gets back.

C. Robert Meyer, president of the Missouri Society of Certified Public Accountants, points out that marriage changes one's income tax status, especially if both husband and wife plan to continue working. If they don't arrange to have withholdings from their paychecks coincide with their expectable tax obligations, they may end the year owing considerably more than has been withheld.

The problem arises, Meyer says, from the fact that the withholding charts do not take into account the possibility that the taxpayer's spouse also has income, moving him into a higher tax bracket.

To avoid having too little tax withheld, Mr. Meyer advises working newlyweds to compute what their taxes for the year will be, then ask their employers to withhold enough to cover them. Such computations should be based on both joint and individual filings, to determine which results in the lesser tax liability.

One reason for a working couple to file separate returns, Meyer says, would be heavy medical bills incurred by one of them. Three percent of adjusted gross income must be subtracted from such bills before they can be deducted and three percent of one income is less than three percent of both.

In some instances, provisions of the 1969 Tax Reform Act that took effect this year favor single taxpayers over married ones, a reversal of the policy that has prevailed since 1948. If both man and wife have substantial incomes they may find themselves paying more taxes than they would if single.

They can't avoid this by filing separate returns, Meyer says, because the lower rates apply only to unmarried individuals.

Is Uncle Sam discouraging marriage?

"That's one interpretation that might be put on it," Meyer concludes.

The director explained, "The business and civic leaders receiving the 1970 service awards made an outstanding contribution to the Missouri Community Betterment program by assisting local community betterment groups accomplish civic improvement projects."

Drug Problem Could End in 2 Years But for Marijuana

ST. LOUIS (AP)— Without the problem of marijuana the nation's drug problem could be solved within two years, a Narcotics Service Council official said Tuesday.

NASCO director William Harvey, speaking at a workshop of the Missouri Public Health Association, said the fact marijuana can lead to other drugs complicates the problem.

The "emerging heroin scene" on the West Coast, Harvey said, dispels the theory that "soft drug abuse" doesn't lead to hard drug addiction.

St. Louis and the Midwest are about a year and a half behind the West Coast in drug abuse but can be expected to catch up, he said.

Among those responsible for drug abuse are "prescriptionprone parents who haul their kids off to a doctor for the slightest indisposition," he contended.

Harvey urged law enforcement agencies to uncover bigtime drug dealers and distributors, including "governments like Turkey and France, which are the principle sources of the flow of illegal drugs to this country."

Wages, Taxes, Crime Threat To Small Business Survival

WASHINGTON (AP) — Excessive wage demands, rapidly rising taxes and the high cost of crime were singled out Monday as major threats against the survival of small businesses.

"A continuance of the wage trends of the recent past, especially in the building trades, is a luxury this nation simply cannot afford," said Wilson S. Johnson, president of the 28year-old National Federation of Indepdendent Business.

He spoke to 1,500 federation members gathered here for their first annual convention. They are to hear President Nixon Wednesday.

Wage boosts far exceeding productivity have acclerated U.S. inflation, Johnson of San Mateo, Calif., said, while national productivity has lagged. Eight other countries have surpassed this country, he said, in the rate of improvement in output per man-hour in the past five years—Japan, Germany, France, the Netherlands, Sweden, Italy, Canada and Britain.

The increase in thefts, robbery and vandalism and the escalating cost of crime insurance "are problems eating at the very vitals of independent business," Johnson said, adding:

"A substantial number of small businesses either are not insured at all, or have serious trouble buying insurance."

Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., told the federation the Tax Reform Act of 1969 "turned out to be a setback for the small business community."

The administration's tax proposals have had big business tax relief as their primary aim, Bible said in a prepared luncheon address, "with no realistic consideration given to the needs of small business."

Bible is the co-author of legislation which would provide federal tax forgiveness for three years to new small enterprises. It also would apply the graduated income tax principle to business taxation. Present law calls for a 22 per cent tax on the first $25,000 of a corporation's taxable earnings, then 48 per cent on the rest.

The Bible legislation would start with 20 per cent on the first $50,000, followed by a sliding scale of increased rates for higher incomes.

Ear Infection Delays Sixth Son's Entry Into Service

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Medical examiners found a minor ear infection Thursday that will hold up for possibly a week or so Steven Earl Powell's attempt to become the sixth son in his family to join the armed forces.

Powell, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Powell of Webb City, Mo., was taking his final medical and mental examinations at the armed forces examining and entrance station when the disqualifying condition was detected.

The commanding officer of the activity, Lt. Col. Dean Boyle, said the youth expressed a determination to return home and come back as soon as the condition is cleared up.

Powell said he had always planned on joining the armed forces, just as his five older brothers had done before him. One brother, Robert Powell, was killed in 1969 in Vietnam.

The other brothers include James, who served in the Navy and who now lives in Webb City; Bill, who served in the Missouri National Guard and who lives in Kansas City, Don, stationed now with the Army at Ft. Knox, Ky., and who expected to finish his hitch in time to enroll at Missouri Southern College in Joplin next fall; and David, who recently completed two years in the Marine Corps and who now lives in Webb City.

The family has another son, Doug, 15, who says he plans to enter the service as soon as he is eligible. He is a sophomore at Webb City High School. Two daughters, Connie and Rose, also live with their parents. The father has been a heavy equipment mechanic for 20 years. A street in Webb City was named in honor of the deceased Robert Powell shortly after his death in Vietnam.

Bonds, School Levies Draw Mixed Response

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

On the fifth try, the Logan-Rogersville school district finally received the necessary two-thirds majority approval Tuesday of a $200,000 bond issue.

The bond was coupled with a 10 cent levy increase and was approved by a vote of 722 to 361.

Bond issues also were approved by school districts at Ozark and Smithville, while Joplin and Park Hill proposals were defeated and a 75-cent increase in the operating levy failed at North Kansas City.

In a municipal election, voters at West Plains rejected a proposed two mill city park levy by a vote of 454 against to 227 for.

Ozark's $348,000 bond issue was coupled with a 35 cent levy increase and passed 514 to 219.

It will finance an intermediate school for grades five through eight.

Smithville approved, 269 to 47, a $160,000 school bond issue.

Joplin's proposed 24 cent levy increase lost by four votes, 2,826 to 2,822. Only a simple majority was needed. The proposal was defeated by more than 500 votes in April.

Park Hill, a district in Platte County that serves Parkville and a portion of Kansas City north, for the third time failed to muster the needed two-thirds majority to pass a $2,350,000 contruction bond issue.

The operating levy loss in North Kansas City was the first recorded in the district. The proposed 75 cent increase, which would have gone entirely for teacher salaries, got only 56 per cent approval, 3,810 to 2,982 while it needed two-thirds.

The Prayer from The Upper Room

Count it all joy, my brethren, when you meet various trials, for you know that the testing of your faith produces steadfastness. (James 1:2-3, RSV)

PRAYER: Father, help us each day to live as Thou wouldst have us live. Keep our attitudes healthy and our service Christlike. Make us steadfast in our works and may our brothers see faith through our actions. We ask in Thy name. Amen.

It's The Law

Objector Allowed to Ballot

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Because Alvin was firm in his convictions, he was convicted of refusing to report for induction into the army. A sincere and religious bone fide conscientious objector, he was given a three years in the pokey for violating the Selective Service Act.

And, while he bore no hard feelings for those responsible for his confinement, he did become rather incensed when he was later prevented from voting in a national election because of his criminal record.

"Sorry," he was told, "but, under state law, anyone convicted of an infamous crime just isn't permitted to vote."

"But, I didn't commit any infamous crime," responded Alvin in a pious and patient fashion. "I was convicted of refusing to kill my fellow human beings for religious reasons. That's not infamous! That's commendable!"

Determined to regain his right to vote, Alvin took the matter to court.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you deny pious Alvin the right to vote?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that the law disqualifying a person from voting because he has committed an "infamous crime" was intended to protect the ballot box from normally corrupt and dishonest people. A person who is a bona fide conscientious objector and who has been convicted of refusing to report for induction, concluded the judge, has not been convicted of an "infamous" crime.
